BAILEY LIKELY TO GET REYNOLDS' JOB.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The name of D. O. Bailey, private secretary to Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department, was mentioned to-day as the probable successor to Assistant Secretary Reynolds.

O'Meara Not Interested.

"I haven't seen the paper, and have no desire to see it. I do not wish to be drawn into a discussion of it or associated with it in any way."—Police Commissioner O'Meara on the Walsh and Ward report, as quoted by the Boston Herald.

NOTORIOUS RESORTS IGNORED BY POLICE

The Watch and Ward Society, composed emphasized the fact that he was of many of Boston's best citizens, in its not at all interested in the reported semi-annual report made public to-day, prevalence of crime flourishing brings a remarkable indictment against without hindrance and restriction." the License Commissioners of Boston, in the direct charge that while they acknowledged the guilt of the proprietors of disreputable places in which the law is recklessly broken, they allowed the places to continue in business and made no effort to enforce the law.

The police are charged with inefficiency, if not something worse, in allowing immoral cafes to flourish under what the report describes as "a peculiar police relaxation."

O'Meara Not Interested.

When the official report of the startling situation, which the AMERICAN has repeatedly exposed, was brought to the attention of Police Commissioner O'Meara, according to the Boston Herald to-day, he stated that he had not seen the Watch and Ward Society report, and not

Here is what Secretary Chase of the society says in his report:

Call for Vigorous Action.

"A growing evil is the immoral cafe and resort which flourishes under a peculiar police relaxation. Their efforts should be supplemented by a more vigorous policy on our part. In the case of prosecutions brought against two notorious resorts of this nature, upon complaint of those compelled by circumstances to live in the neighborhood, your secretary secured evi-

2 FATALLY INJURED IN AUTO RACE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Death upon the 22½ miles of track of the Riverhead Motltrack automobile course with the racers to-day.

Shortly after the contests started, Herbert Lytle and his mechanician, Jow Bates, were terribly injured in a spill two miles west of Mattituck in the Long Island motor boat. Bates died later and Lytle will probably die.

The accident happened soon after the start. Sixteen cars started. Desbrow, Car No. 1, got away at 9 o'clock sharp. Armstrong following after a minute's interval. Armstrong passed Desbrow before the first lap had been completed. The cars go away at minute intervals.

The time for the three leading cars at the end of the first lap was: Armstrong 19:29; Palmer 22:12; Disbrow 22:42.

Lytle's car was the fourth to start. He determined to watch Armstrong and take the honors away from him. He started ten minutes behind Armstrong, his racing machine getting over the line with the speed of a cannon shot.

Auto Turned Turtle.

Two miles west of Mattituck Lytle's car skidded and then leaped in the air and turned turtle.

Both men were crushed under it.

Quickly as possible assistance was rendered up the course and surgeons hastened to the scene. The car was backed up and Lytle and Bates, crushed and mangled and both unconscious, were dragged from the wreckage.

After an examination of the injured men by Drs. Stevens, Hoag and Tuttle, it was found that practically every bone in Bates's body was broken.

Both the Vanderbilt and Grand Prix records were smashed. Louis Chevrolet, who made the 115¾ miles in the class B race in 99 minutes 28.5-10 seconds, averaging 70 miles an hour.

Thirteen fast cars lined up to-day for the start.

Cars and Their Drivers.

The starting order with the classification cars and drivers follows:

Class 1, 84,001 and over, 227.5 miles—Ranier, Louis Disbrow; Mercedes, George Armstrong; Fiat, Hugh Hefferan; Alpercan, Herbert Lytle; Ranier, Charles Lund.

Class 2, 82,001 to 84,000, 182 miles—American, Hugh Hughes; Palmer & Singer, Frank Lewgard.

Class 3, $2,001 to $3,000, 136.5 miles—Alco, Will Sharp.

Class 4, $650 to $2,000, 113.7 miles—Marmon, Art Sees; Buick, Jack Flack; Maxwell, Merlin Bonlay; Maxwell, Tim Custello; Overland, George Reiss.

Ralph Dorlon won the prize contest for a $25 gold piece. Derby, covering the distance of 227½ miles in 118 minutes, or an average speed of 62.5 miles an hour.

The cars were sent off one at a time and from the speed at the start it was evident that records were to be smashed.

The Riverhead-Mattituck circuit, which is twenty-three miles long, is the newest of the auto courses and was declared with to-day's races. It is declared to be a most unusually fast, in spite of the recent fall, and it is believed that by the end of the day several records will have gone by the boards.

Hundreds Line Course.

Before the start of the first race, Jo Palma declared that the new course is the safest and apparently the fastest of in the country.

The grand stand is situated at a point on Roanoke avenue, midway between Riverhead and Centreville, and the course is east Riverhead, Aquebogue and along the north road for Mattituck.

At this place there is situated the worst turn of the course. It is of the hairpin variety, but the road is in such shape that the danger is greatly lessened.

The course from Mattituck is along Sound shore road, past West Mattituck and Northville, where it turns at Centre.

NEW RECORD FOR WRIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss, America's rival aviators, gave New York thrills by wonderful air feats to-day. Wright captured the morning honors by circling the Statue of Liberty. Flying above Governor's Island and the North River, while thousands looked on from the surrounding shores, the daring air navigator sped back and forth.

After completing his flight around the Liberty statue Wright said that at times he thought he traveled at the rate of fifty-eight miles an hour. This breaks all speed records for aeroplane. Curtiss, in France, established a record of forty-eight miles an hour.

"The average speed of my second flight was about forty miles an hour," said Wright. "While returning from the statue, however, there were times when the aeroplane went at the rate of about fifty eight miles. It was a fine flight."

Curtiss started the grand exhibition when he arrived at the island shortly after dawn and sent his biplane up for a short trial test. He found the machine was working smoothly and promised a longer flight for the afternoon.

When Wright arrived at the island he discovered his rival had won the preliminary honor. He thinkered about a bit and then started on a flight above the island. He made this easily and on another start went out over the river and then circled around the Statue of Liberty. Each of the flights lasted more than seven minutes and Wright went at the rate of forty miles an hour. Sometimes he ascended as far as two hundred feet.

Circles Statue of Liberty.

After Wright had made his first ascension word was quickly spread through the downtown districts. Business was practically suspended in the Wall Street district, while brokers and others went to the tops of skyscrapers and began watching Governor's Island.

Their vigilance was rewarded a little after 10 o'clock, when the aeroplane again appeared, and going around the island, proceeded straight toward Bedloe's Island and circled the Statue of Liberty about half way from the top.

While Wright's second flight was more

THOUSANDS SEE TIGERS AND RED SOX GAMES

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Sept. 29.—A nightly throng of fans besieged the box offices early this afternoon, all hands bent on seeing the double-header between the Red Sox and Detroit Tigers. It was the crucial series for the league leaders, and the story of their downfall on their triumph will be told by the time the series ends.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

The fans let out a big cheer when D Jones, the first batter, struck out. Arellanes could not locate the plate and Bush walked on four straight balls. On the hit and run play Bush left first and Lord, who got to right, Bush scampering round to third. Crawford picked out one to his liking and sent it about six feet over the right field fence for a home run, scoring Bush and Lord ahead of him. Arellanes was still wild and Moriarty drew a pass. Moriarty attempted to steal second, but a nice throw by Carrigan to French got him. Delehanty fanned. THREE RUNS.

Yerkes went in each top to D. Jones. Lord's grounder got away from T. Jones and Hooper, safe at first. Speaker forced Lord, Killian to Bush. Speaker was nailed five feet trying to steal. Schmidt to Delehanty. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

T. Jones hit to McConnell and died at first. Arellanes still had difficulty in finding the plate and Schmidt walked. At this point the hook was applied and Karger replaced Arellanes. Carrigan took the ball under this first and Schmidt got to second. A quick throw from Karger to French caught him asleep. Killian had two strikes called on him, then changed to other side of base and hit a weak one along the first line which Karger threw to Stahl. NO RUNS.

French was easy on strikes. Stahl hit one that looked good for extra bases, but Jones fouled it. Then Karger retired and pulled it down. McConnell was out, Delehanty to T. Jones. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Jones grounded out to Stahl unassisted. Bush was easy. Karger to Stahl. Karger hit Comm a terrific soak on the wrist. To stole second, sibling under French. Karger purposely gave Crawford four bad ones. French threw out Moriarty on a close play. NO RUNS.

Hooper died, Delehanty to T. Jones. Carrigan was easy for Moriarty and Tom Jones. Karger fanned. NO RUNS.

BOSTON MAN CLAIMS $91,000 OF COMPANY

BELFAST, Me., Sept. 29.—Major Edgar F. Hanson and Elmer A. Sherman have been appointed by Judge Haley of the house of the Supreme Court receivers of the Penobscot Lumber Mining Company of this city. The principal creditor of the concern is Charles H. Wood of Boston, who has a claim of $91,000.

Wood was the chancellor broker of the company. It is understood that he now desires to wind the business up, being practically the sole stockholder. He has an office at No. 6 Beacon street, Boston.

DEMAND FOR RECORDS IN STEEL CASES

Lawyers for the thirty-two defendants in the steel cases to-day fought a desperate but futile battle to keep from the records the formal demand of the district attorney for the production in court of certain books and papers for the possession of some of the defendants. Judge Harris ruled against the defence, and their lawyers immediately asked for an exception to the ruling.

The demand was filed by Assistant District Attorney Curtis immediately following a lengthy conference between the lawyers and the Judge at the opening of court to-day. At the conclusion of this Judge Harris announced that certain of the defendants had asked for the right to be absent during the trial on account of business interests. The request was granted with the proviso that these men remain within the reach of the court officers and that they be represented by counsel constantly.

Albert E. Taylor, a clerk in the office of the Commissioner of Corporations at the State House, resumed his testimony to-day. His testimony was devoted almost entirely to the reading of the charters of the various corporations who are defendants in the case.

The cross-examination of Taylor was commenced at 11 o'clock, Attorney Elbridge Anderson asked for the copy of the by-laws of the Memphis & Jones Company, and when told that he had not brought them asked for their production later, together with all correspondence from that company.

Attorney Elder then took the witness in hand.

"To what address did you send the notice to file suit for the defendant, Brown Ketchum Iron Works?" he asked.

"To their office on Devonshire street.

Q.—Did you know that they had discontinued that office. A.—No, I did not.

BIG BALLOON PLUNGES INTO HUDSON RIVER

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Two dirigible balloons started for Albany from Outlook Hill and Nineteenth street and Riverside drive just before noon to-day in a race in connection with the Hudson Fulton celebration, to the winner of which a prize of $10,000 had been offered.

The dirigible balloon "Goliath," captained by George L. Tomlinson was the first to get away. The other contestant was Captain Thomas F. Baldwin.

The balloon broke down off One Hundred and Nineteenth street and fell into the Hudson River, but he was rescued by a launch. He said that the jarring of the engine loosened the frame work and when he was over One Hundred and Ninety-seventh street it started to go to pieces. He stopped the engine and opened the gas valve, allowing the balloon to sink gradually into the water.

Tomlinson first struck a course to the south between the Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Amsterdam avenue and for a time it looked as if his machine would collide with the tower. He avoided this, but ran considerably out of his course. At this time the Baldwin machine could easily through the air.

TICKET NAMED BY ESSEX REPUBLICANS

DANVERS, Sept. 29.—At the Convention of the Essex County Republicans to-day James F. Post of North Andover was nominated for County Commissioner and David B. Meldrum of Rockport for County Treasurer.

Ipswich was chairman and C. O. Dugan of Salem secretary of the convention.

FALLS IN STREET; DIES IN HOSPITAL

The body of a well-dressed man who died at the Relief Hospital after collapsing in Bowdoin Square is held for identification at the North Grove street morgue. Assistant Medical Examiner Leary is performing an autopsy upon the body to discover the cause of death. Nothing was found upon the man's person to assist the police in identifying him. He was of middle age.

ATHOL MAN NEARLY CRUSHED BY LIFT

ATHOL, Sept. 29.—Maurice A. Dunbar, bookkeeper at the N. D. Case Box Company, had a narrow escape from being crushed to death by a heavy elevator.

Dunbar was looking down the elevator shaft, when the heavy lift came crashing down. A fellow workingman pulled him away just in time.

CO-OPERATIVE BANK ASKS FOR CHARTER

Application will be made to the Bank Commissioner to-day for a charter for the Co-operative Bank, which was organized at a meeting held last night at No. 173 Lamrat avenue, Dorchester. Many prominent Mattapan and Dorchester citizens attended and the following officers were elected: Wilmot F. Beals, president; W. H. Crosby, vice-president; W. R. Landers, secretary and treasurer of the board of directors. Fifteen directors were elected. Mr. Beals is a well-known Dorchester resident and a the secretary of the Dorchester Trust Company.

MRS. ROCKEFELLER SERIOUSLY ILL

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—It became known to-night that the "slight cold" that is costing Mrs. John D. Rockefeller to her home in Forest Hill, is of a much more serious ailment. Mrs. Harold F. McCormick is at her mother's bedside, having been summoned from Chicago by long distance telephone Sunday.

DEMOCRATS AT WAR ON BOOM FOR FOSS

If Eugene N. Foss, recognized Republican, permits his name to go before the Democratic convention for Governor, a hot fight to-morrow as a candidate for the nomination for lieutenant governor, it will be only after James H. Vahey's friends have guaranteed to Mr Foss a harmonious convention and a platform of which Mr. Foss approved.

Leading members of the Democratic State Committee declared to-day that this state of affairs will be extremely unlikely and that, if Mr Foss' name is presented to the convention, they will take the rostrum and vigorously oppose his nomination.

The promise of a fight over the proposed nomination of Mr Foss, coupled with the unexpected strength of Mayor John T. Coughlin of Fall River as a candidate for Governor, to-day gave plain evidence that to-morrow's convention will be a lively, exciting one and no "walk and canter affair.

Macleod at Conference.

Henry H. Lavers, tariff expert for Mr Foss, who has been consulting during the past week with Chairman Macleod of the State Committee, had another session with Mr. Macleod today. Chairman Macleod would say nothing to-day about this or any phase of the Foss candidacy. Mr. Foss talked guardedly. He said:

"Democratic authorities assure me the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor has offered me the nomination. I have not had a conference with Mr Vahey.

"I would not consider a nomination if there is to be a fight made over my name in the convention, nor if the platform is not to my liking. A draft of the platform has not been shown me.

"I will say nothing positively until I have seen the platform."

Warm Contest Ahead.

That there will be a hot fight over Mr. Foss's name was assured to-day. Democrats who oppose the policy of nominating a Republican for the second place on the ticket will lead the fight. A number of State committeemen favor the nomination of Elmer A. Bliss, the shoe manufacturer of Whitman.

George T. McLaughlin of the Cape arrived in Boston to-day with a boom for Foss. Chairman of Plainville for second term on the ticket. Western Democrats favor Daniel England of Pittsfield for the place. If none of these names draw sufficient support the name of Richard Olney, 2d, nephew of President Cleveland's Secretary of State, will be presented as a harmony candidate.

If Mr. Foss is nominated, Harvey N. Shepard, the well-known Boston lawyer, will allow his name to be presented for Attorney-General. If Mr. Foss is not nominated, the nominee for this place will be Frederick J. Mansfield.

Coughlin Coming Strong.

While the Foss fight was the big topic of conversation of the day among arriving Democratic politicians, the Vahey men were hard at work on some covert base taps caused by the unexpected strength shown by Mayor John T. Coughlin of Fall River, candidate for the nomination for Governor. Up to this time the Vahey men have been "pooh-pooh-ing" Mr. Coughlin's candidacy. In the meantime, backed up by former Mayor Josiah Quincy and most of the leaders in Henry M. Whitney's campaigns, Mr. Coughlin has been doing some hard and effective work.

Mr. Vahey will be fought hard in to-friends claim that he will have the delegates from Fall River, Lowell, Lawrence, Worcester and New Bedford, and some other delegations absent which he is saying nothing. His headquarters at the Hotel Thorndike, have a most business-like appearance. That a score was thrown into the Vahey camp to-day could not be doubted, and messages were sent all over the State ordering some but, hard work before the delegates come down to Boston to-night.

Roger Sherman Hoar of Concord will probably receive the nomination for Secretary of State. He is the son of Sherman Hoar and a member of the family which has taken such a distinguished part in the history of the Commonwealth. While in Harvard Mr Hoar organized a big Democratic Club during the last presidential election.

Humphrey O'Sullivan of Lowell will receive the nomination for State Treasurer unless all signs fail.

ON TRAIL OF BROTHER WITH COURT ORDER

Armed with a subpoena for the appearance of his brother in the East Cambridge Court, where the contest for the $500,000 estate left by Daniel Russell of Melrose, is being waged, Daniel Blake Russell is today searching Melrose for William C. Russell, from whom he hopes to wrest half the estate.

Since the trial started several demands have been made for the appearance of William C. Russell in court. His counsel have admitted that they knew nothing of his whereabouts. Today Daniel Blake Russell became convinced that his brother spent last night in his Melrose home and he started early to serve him with a summons to appear in court.

With neither the petitioner nor the respondent in the remarkable contest in the courtroom today, the trial opened before Judge Lawton and immediately dissolved into a wrangle between counsel over the admissibility of evidence from Frederick G. Lynde of New York, a first cousin of Daniel Blake Russell. Lynde said:

"Daniel Blake Russell and his father had similar features. They were both tall men and both stooped in their walk. Their gait was similar and their eyes were alike. Between his father and Daniel Blake Russell the same was true. Both he and she were sons of speech."

While this line of questioning was objected to by Attorney Nash for William C. Russell, it was admitted by Judge Lawton, who said:

"If there are peculiarities between father and son I will admit it. It seems impossible, however, that a witness can identify a man whom he saw only once or twice when he was a boy of four or perhaps five years old, and not for twenty-four years since."

JOSEPH O'BRIEN WEDS AT REVERE

Joseph O'Brien of No. 417 Spencer avenue, Chelsea, and Miss Rosine Hammond of No. 54 Irvington street, Revere, were married in the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Revere at 9 o'clock today, the nuptial mass being celebrated by the Rev. James E. Fahey, pastor. Mr. O'Brien is stamp clerk in the Chelsea postoffice. Two years ago he retired from the boxing ring, in which he was known as "Joe Nelson," a feather-weight. The bridegroom was Fred O'Brien, brother of the bridegroom. Miss Irene Doherty was the bridesmaid.

After a short wedding tour to Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will live at No. 34 Washington avenue, Chelsea.

FIND FUGITIVE IN SUSPICIOUS PERSON

Two men arrested in Castle Square last night as suspicious characters by Special Officers Concannon and Grant of the East Dedham street police station, proved today to be men from the West whose descriptions are in the Rogers Gallery, one of whom is a fugitive from justice. He is Edward Johnson, thirty-eight years old, wanted in Akron, Ohio, for stealing a quantity of dry goods and money to the value of $4,262. The other man arrested gave his name as Martin Lewis, forty years old.

Geraldine Farrar Back With New Dog as Pet

Posed for Boston American's staff photographer on landing at pier in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Miss Geraldine Farrar, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was all "dressed up" on the North German Lloyd pier after she arrived on the Kronprinz Wilhelm, with Mr. Andreas Dippel, administrative manager of the Opera house, and Mr. Alfred Davis and Mr. Glenn Hale, a new tenor of the company. Someone had walked off with her new French bull dog, and the Customs officials were arguing whether or not she was a non-resident, as she had proclaimed her self on her declaration. The Customs men were trying to talk to her about her status as a non-resident and she was looking for her dog. Not until she found her small, black animal with its twisted tail did she remain quiet and smilingly ask:

"Too Much of an American."

"Well, what is it?"

Holding the dog by its leash, she explained that she had resided in Europe for eight years, coming here only for the opera season. As a non-resident, her personal effects would come into the country free of duty. Some of the officials said this on a technicality she could probably come in as a passenger. Wherewith, getting a tighter grip on her dog, Miss Farrar remarked:

"I don't want to come in on a technicality. I'm an American through and through, and for that I'll declare as a resident and pay the duty."

The customs bill amounted to something like $100. Miss Farrar had several thousand dollars' worth of jewels also, but they had been registered at the customhouse before she went away last June.

WOMAN WOULDN'T LEAVE HIS OFFICE

Arrested on the complaint of Albert L. Wyman, a druggist at No. 79 Berkeley street, who alleges that she persisted in remaining in his private office despite his desire to have her elsewhere, Eliza Seth Sullivan, a comely woman of about thirty years, and living at No. 58 Gray street, in the South End, appeared in the City Police Court. She asked for a continuance of the trial until October 29, stating that she was going to utterly contest the charge of trespassing, alleging that Wyman was an intimate acquaintance of hers and that an interesting story lies behind the arrest.

Wilhelmina Invents a "Caravan" for Baby.

THE HAGUE—Baby Princess Juliana now takes exercise in an elaborate sort of caravan invented by her mother, Queen Wilhelmina. The novel conveyance is used for taking the royal infant to sheltered spots in the park of Het Loo, and protecting her from the weather during the short journey. It contains space for an ordinary baby carriage, seats for nurses, and a small stove for heating food as well as warming the interior, with other appropriate appointments. As the court remains at Het Loo until the middle of December, this caravan will be just the thing for the baby Princess during the chill Autumn days.

Latham Flies 75 Miles an Hour.

BERLIN—It is announced that M. Latham, flying in the Zeppelin-Parseval to Johannestal reached a speed of seventy-four and one-half miles an hour. The aviation contest has not yet had out striking results. Most of the aviators had trouble with their motors or experienced difficulty in rising from the ground. M. Rougier made a creditable showing for the speed, height and distance prizes. He made twenty rounds of the course, a distance of fifty-one miles, in 54 minutes, at a maximum height of 50 feet.

"Chantecler" in Rehearsal.

PARIS—After many false alarms, rehearsals of "Chantecler" have at last begun at the Porte Saint Martin, but the play one concerned only minor roles. Guitry and Mme. Simone, principals, were not in attendance. Jean Coquelin says he hopes for the first presentation in November. Absolute secrecy is maintained as to the plot of the piece, scenery, costumes and dialogue, and it is said that this course will be continued until the very night of the production.

To Cure Sleeping Sickness.

PARIS—Dr. Laveran of this city, has announced to the Academy of Sciences a new cure for the sleeping sickness. It consists of subcutaneous injections of an iodine emetic. This remedy was suggested by the experiments conducted by Dr. Evans, an American physician, and worked out in Senegal by Dr. Thiroux with remarkable results.

American Agreement Ends.

LONDON—The Foreign Office has issued an official intimation that the United States intends to terminate the commercial agreement of November, 1907, on February 2 next respecting consumers' samples entering the United Kingdom and import duties on British works of art entering the United States.

Chance for American Teachers.

SAN JUAN, P. R.—Nineteen hundred schools with 100,000 pupils opened yesterday. A majority of the teachers are Porto Ricans, who teach both Spanish and English. Of the 160 American teachers necessary the number is sixty short owing to the reduction in salary caused by the government's insufficient allotment of money for education.

Thousands Idle in London.

LONDON—One of the most active powers for the unemployed of London is J. Ends How, who is organizing a congress of unemployed to be held in Chicago next year. The outlook for the workless in London during the approaching Winter is dark. The number of unemployed registered last Winter was smaller by 42 per cent. than that registered in the present week.

Big Boom in Manila Cigars.

MANILA—Since the passage of the new Aldrich tariff bill, which had a favorable effect on the Philippine tobacco and cigars, there has been an extraordinary demand for tobacco workers. Most of the factories have been running overtime with extra shifts of workmen in anticipation of a big demand from the United States.

Philippines' Coal Industry.

MANILA—After an inspection of the coal mines at Batan the Governor-General has decided to displace foreign fuel in government bureaus in order to encourage the development of those mines. He pitches a probable future for private enterprise in developing these mines.

Aid in Sea Collisions.

BRUSSELS—The initial meeting of the International Maritime Conference now showed that the delegates were practically unanimous in favor of accepting in their present form the conventions framed at Brussels in 1889 regarding collisions at sea and the assistance to be rendered.

Jamaica Cuts Oil Duty.

KINGSTON, Jamaica—The Government will make a substantial reduction in the duties in kerosene, all of which is imported from the United States, with the object of stimulating consumption.

DEVONIAN TAKES A BUMPER CARGO OUT

When the Devonian of the Leyland line sailed for Liverpool today she carried freight enough to fill several trains. In the remarkable large cargo were 2,200 bales of cotton, 1,000 bales of peribions, 400 tons of hay, 325 tons of fresh beef, 750 head of cattle and 1,000 tons of general freight. There were twenty-five saloon passengers, among whom were Homer Byington, United States Consul at Bristol, England, and Aubrey Hunt, the artist.

BANK IN OKLAHOMA CITY FAILS TO OPEN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 29.—The Columbia Bank and Trust Company of Oklahoma City failed to open its doors today and A. M. Young, state banking commissioner, is in charge of its affairs. The character of many of its loans is under scrutiny.

PARENTS IN COURT FIGHT ON DAUGHTER

BROCKTON, Sept. 29.—Sixteen-year-old Marie Harvey sides with her father in the fight her mother is making in a suit to become her guardian. When the case comes up in court at Plymouth in October Charles C. Harvey, the father, will urge that he be allowed to retain the custody of the girl, according to an agreement reached when the couple was divorced.

Mrs. Clara Allen Harvey obtained the custody of DeMerritt Harvey, the twelve-year-old son, at that time, and now she wants the daughter.

For the past two years Marie has been attending the Ingleside School at Revere, where she has won recognition for her excellent work. On several occasions the young lady was left in charge of classes and toward the end of her term she taught for a period of two weeks. She is an excellent cook and an accomplished pianist.

"I think the world of that girl and I'm going to see that she is properly educated," said Mr. Harvey. "Mr. former wife claims that I am unable to support the girl, but does it look as though I should be looking after her property? I mean to see that my former wife persists in fighting for the girl in the court case her into my custody."

Rev. Julius S. Ainsworth of the Central Methodist Church talked the matter over with me and was influential in urging Marie at East Greenwich Academy in Connecticut this week.

TITLED SWINDLERS ARRESTED IN ROME

ROME, Sept. 29.—A band of swindlers, including many persons of title, has been discovered by the police. Several arrests have been made and several people have fled abroad and may be extradited. The operations of the fashionable thieves consisted in obtaining costly jewelry or articles upon representations of purchase. The goods were then sold cheaply and the seller kept the money.

EX-GOV. GARVIN IN LEGISLATURE FIGHT

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 29.—Former Governor Lucius F. C. Garvin has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the Legislature from the town of Cumberland. His opponent in Friday night's caucuses will be Dennis J. Shea, now second Representative of that town. Garvin declares that Shea is the "pet of Boss Colonel B. Brayton," and declares that the Republican machine has backed Shea, though Shea was elected as a Democrat.

DIES OF CROUP AT 44.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 29.—Laughing when he was seized, he was attacked by croup and refusing medical aid, Mrs. Michael Cudinotte, forty-four years old, strangled to death from the disease usually prevailing among children only.

MARIE HARVEY, 16, WHO SIDES WITH FATHER IN CASE

CREATORE MARRIED; COURTED A WEEK

DETROIT, Sept. 29.—Signor Francesco Creatore, the bandmaster, and Miss Erma Calamary, daughter of Mme. Calamary, of the North Side Social set of Music, were married in the county building here. Judge Teegan performing the ceremony. Only a week ago they met, when Mme. Calamara and her daughter attended the band concert. The daughter sent a request for the quartet from "Rigoletto." After the concert they met. Creatore was urged to call and with his picturesque energy won the heart of the daughter. The Creatores will make their home in Detroit this Winter.

EXTENDS SESSIONS OF SUPERIOR COURT

Chief Justice Aiken, to make more progress with civil cases in the Superior Court, has ordered that beginning next Monday the six sessions of the court in Suffolk County sit an hour longer each day. Court will come in at 9:30 o'clock each morning and sit until 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, with the usual recess from 1 o'clock at noon.

WORLD'S END COMING SURE, SAYS SEERESS

CAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 29.—Declaring that her prophecies have not failed, but were merely misinterpreted, Miss Eva Brown, the beautiful girl whose visions of the world's coming to an end led the members of the Latter Reign of the Apostolic Church to gather in a chilled flat week, is firmly convinced that the end of time is at hand. Some time in October is believed to be the new date.

She arrived yesterday at her home, No. 200 May street. Her visions are continuing and she is encouraging the disappointed "brothers" and "sisters" as to were convinced that the last day is not far distant.

"The only who had been dead recovered her breathing, one who had been subject to epileptic fits was cured," she continued, "and I myself have been cured of all pains in their bodies as in the transfiguration, when Jesus, Moses and Elias were seen. Some say that the transfiguration was a foretaste of his coming to the disciples, so that they would be ready for his coming to us.

"Next week, the hour prophesied for the end, a lamb which had been filled with evil spirits will be killed, and all the prophecies of the foolish virgins, and at the same time the sacred fire of heaven will fall all over the country. No jewelry was collected in January and all the money was spent for provisions, no money being taken up for the last week. Some of us are still at Duxbury and will stay there until after the feast of the tabernacles, which ends next week.

What we did expect was that the Lord would descend and take away the elect," she added. She was unable to account for the Lord's failure to do so.

Ashled, the little hamlet, five miles from Duxbury, was thrown into a state of excitement when Miss Brown and her followers began their preparations for the end. Many of the townspeople were converted to the new faith, but when the end failed to come they became disgusted and left the town.

BRIDE OF TEN WEEKS DEAD.

Mrs. Helen E. Means Cummings, a bride of ten weeks, died yesterday at a Boston hospital as the result of a surgical operation. She was twenty-five years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Cummings were married at Chelmsford last June. Mrs. Cummings had been ill for several weeks, but her death was a shock to her many friends. The burial will be at Glenwood Cemetery, Everett.

Mortgagee's Sale

Of Entire Stock of

OAK HALL CLOTHING CO.

95-105 Washington St.

I will offer the entire stock of this reliable old concern at less than cost.

And that simple statement means exactly what it says.

I'm not going to pile up a lot of lurid adjectives in the attempt to convince you of the unusual character of this sale.

I'm relying on your confidence in this 75-year old store—your knowledge of its trustworthy methods and the dependable character of its merchandise.

As mortgagee it is my duty and my purpose to convert the stock into cash in the shortest possible time in order to liquidate the claims of creditors.

Without regard to the prices that this splendid stock should bring, I have fixed new figures on everything in the store that will make short work of my task.

It is difficult for me to tell you of the unusual character of this sale without making it read like exaggeration, so I'm simply going to urge you to come and let your own eyes tell you the story.

CRIME FLOURISHING UNCHECKED BY POLICE SAYS SECRETARY CHASE

dence justifying a petition to have their licenses revoked. The board acknowledged the guilt of the parties, but did not apply the remedy the law prescribes.

"At the urgent request of a pastor of a church situated in the ganger zone in the South End, your secretary gathered evidence against an immoral house alleged to have been continued unmolested for twenty-two years.

"Similar appeals to the police by that pastor had been fruitless. The police captain of that precinct told your secretary he was powerless to close this house. In ten days your agents gathered evidence and instituted an equity action, and an injunction was allowed and a decree issued. If the authorities will now do their duty officers in front of that place the remedy will be effective. If this be but done, the society will see that the court decree is enforced. It would seem that the police should expect such service from the police, especially when the dignity of the court is in question."

School Girls at Peddock's.

Through Mr. Chase's report it becomes known for the first time that eight girls, recent graduates of a Boston high school, were among those taking part in the orgies attending the Chinese picnic at Peddock's Island last July. Secretary Chase declares the girls went to the island to witness the celebration and were lured into leaving part. "A witness declared," says Secretary Chase in his report, "that a girl overcome by cocaine at that outing was only fourteen years old, according to her own statement."

Mr. Chase reports that hundreds of Boston boys and girls are nearly being enticed into the drug habit. He fears unless the vice is checked that the cocaine habit will be spread until it becomes a demoralizing factor in Boston's social life.

His report follows in part:

"Before reporting in detail, your secretary wishes to call attention to some of the most important lines of evidence which have been brought forcibly to his attention, and which point to a prevalence of crime of the most appalling nature, flourishing without apparent hindrance and restriction, and of the most sordid and degrading character.

"Heading the list is the white slave traffic. This consists of enticing young girls to their ruin, and selling them into immoral houses where they are kept by nefarious methods from their freedom until they have sunk so low that there is no inclination to forsake the life into which they have been dragged.

"From evidence your agents have procured, we believe the annual traffic in human souls in this city for this purpose amounts to hundreds. These include the new victims which are annually needed to fill vacancies in the brothels of Greater Boston.

Children Get Drug Habit.

"The work of your society in ferreting out and destroying the root of this crime, has been cut short by a serious lack of funds.

"In the second instance your secretary wishes to call your attention to the marked increase of cocaine and opium selling which is rampant in all of the principal cities of New England, and more particularly in Boston.

"In the visits to resorts where this drug is used, 'cocaine parties,' as they are called, and in tracing down the source of supply, your agents have reported vital statistics from three to three which have been duly filed. There are hundreds of young girls and boys entering yearly into the habit of using cocaine. If not checked by a rigorous hand, the vice will continue to spread until it becomes a most demoralizing factor in our social life. The most gruesome result of this slavery to the drug habit is the fact that the lease of life of the confirmed user is but a very few years. The selling of cocaine to be used for this purpose ranks with murder as a crime, but the penalty now imposed by law is a mere fine of not less than $5 or more than $100, with no time sentence to fear.

Lured Into Orgies.

"Your secretary has made a determined stand against these evils, but in this, as in other lines of our work, we are hampered by lack of necessary funds to continue as regularly as we desire.

"The expose by the public spirited press of the orgies occurring at a chinese outing held at Peddocks Island last July led your secretary to make an investigation into the conditions existing there, and institute prosecutions.

"These prosecutions would have been justified on the violation of law alone, but in addition they were doubly warranted when your secretary learned that no less than eight of the women participating in the disgraceful scenes were graduates of a recent class of a Boston high school. Those who knew them testified that they were not the regular guests of that outing, but came to witness the unusual orgies and were lured into taking part in them. On the witness stand a government witness declared that a girl overcome by cocaine at that outing, was only fourteen years of age, according to her own statement.

Notorious Resorts Protected by Police

A growing evil in our community is the immoral cafe and resort which flourishes under a peculiar police relaxation. This has been made apparent in many instances, and none more so than in the case of prosecutions brought against two notorious resorts in the North End. These places, the hotels Rome and Piscopo, are located in a thickly populated neighborhood, and scenes of innocent women and children are forced to witness scenes which are a disgrace to any civilized community.

Upon the complaint of those compelled by circumstances to live in the neighborhood, your secretary instituted an investigation which furnished sufficient to justify us in petitioning the licensing board to refuse these places a renewal of their license. To our absolute amazement, while the board acknowledged the guilt of the parties involved, they did not apply the remedy the law prescribed.—From the annual report of Secretary Frank Chase to the Watch and Ward Society.

GIRL LIES FOR DAYS IN DEATH LIKE TRANCE

Maiden physicians today acknowledge that they are baffled by the death-like trance which overcame fourteen-year-old Margaret Jaynes Sunday morning. Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Jaynes of No. 29 Lebanon street, Malden. Ever since Sunday morning the girl has been in a profound slumber from which she cannot be roused.

Two weeks ago she was vaccinated and it is to this that the father attributes her mysterious illness. Today Dr. W. F. Hunt, Dr. Godfrey Rider and Dr. John Dean drew fluid from the girl's spine to make a test for evidences of meningitis. A subsequent examination has puzzled the physicians more than ever.

Margaret became ill last Friday. Her head ached and she seemed to be generally sick. Saturday her condition was unchanged. Sunday morning she was awakened and supported into another room. She lay down and has not awakened since. On Sunday and Monday she was restless and was apparently in pain. Since then she has been plunged in a death-like slumber.

TIN PLATE UP $2.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 29.—The American Tin Plate Company has advanced the price of steel sheets and tin plate $2 per ton, and it is believed the independent manufacturers will immediately follow the advance. The boom in steel trade and building operations is given as the reason for the advance.

PLANETS IN PLOT TO GIVE EARTH A JOLT

Is the earth to be jolted out of shape today?

Frank Alvord Perret has started nearly as much talk as Dr. Cook, the other Brooklyn man now in the spotlight. Perret is honorary and assistant director of the Royal Observatory at Mount Vesuvius and made a name for himself by forecasting the Messina earthquake.

Now he says that the sun, moon, Mars, Saturn and Jupiter, with Halley's comet hovering around on the sidewalk line, have all bended together to give this old world a jolt. Perret has left on a steamship and says all of these bodies are in unusual alignment and have formed a celestial conspiracy to disturb the earth's form.

Professor Edmund Hill, Columbia University and Professor Frank Soldenger of the Allegheny Observatory at Pittsburg laugh at Perret.

Perret says that the sun, the moon and the planets cause earthquakes when they get too close to the world or begin to gether and make a tremendous force of gravitation.

If this planetary game were not to be set up soon there's little doubt that the professor would get into the 94 a spindle as Peary and Cook.

CONFIRMS CLASS OF 160 AT CONCORD

Bishop Joseph G. Anderson confirmed a class of one hundred and sixty boys and girls of St. Bernard's parish, Concord, today. Bishop Anderson is the guest of Rev. M. J. Flaherty, pastor of St. Bernard's Church. A reception was given for him in the K. of C. council rooms last evening.

WOULD OUST RAILROAD AND HEALTH BOARDS

The removal of the Railroad Commissioners and the members of the State Board of Health is demanded in two petitions filed with Governor Draper by George Alfred, a farm owner and dairyman of Concord.

The petitions charge that the Railroad Commissioners have been derelict in their duty in their failure to make any recommendation relative to the questions of the facilities and rates for the transportation of milk, by the railroads, by withholding from the legislature information bearing upon the business and prosperity of the state, in violation of the duty imposed on them by law, and by their failure to carry out their promise given last year in their order of August 20, 1908, regarding the milk question.

The petitions also charge that the State Board of Health should be removed, because they have failed to carry out the provisions of the law relative to the production and sale, because they have illegally established an unstandard degree of centrifugal cream test, and because they have failed to secure the prosecution of those who sold milk lower than the legal standard, and because by such action great detriment has been suffered by milk producers and consumers of milk.

Accompanying the petitions is a letter to the Governor asking for immediate action in a matter of utmost importance to the dairy interests of the State.

'SALOON ISN'T THE PLACE FOR YANKEE FLAG'

BOSTON, Sept. 29. Speaking in the House of Commons, Patrick O'Brien and Bellfast, Kilkenny, drew the attention of Premier Asquith to the incident at the occasion of the reception of Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, at Dublin on the 23rd of October, Archbishop, delegates from the United Irish League of America were present, and that the Cardinal was also to take part in response to an address extended by John Redmond and other Irish leaders, when the police ordered Irish sympathizers to remove the Yankee flag.

Mr. O'Brien declared that this incident was considered by Americans as an insult to the flag itself. He suggested that Americans whose flag has contributed so much to the prosperity of Ireland, should have been ordered removed on a mere occasion. He was anxious to know if the American flag was to be insulted in the first government had no intention of communicating with Washington on the subject.

HUNDREDS HELD UP BY CAR ACCIDENT

Two accidents delayed the car traffic half an hour on the Dorchester avenue line of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. this morning, causing much inconvenience to hundreds of passengers going to work.

The first accident occurred at the junction of Old Colony avenue and Dorchester avenue when a motor car broke down, stopping cars on both the inward and outward tracks.

The second accident came a few minutes later when a motor car on a Dorchester avenue inward bound car broke.

BIG SHOE STOCK GOES TO BOSTON
Sheinwald Pays 40 Cents on Dollar To Receiver for the Rochester Shoe Emporium.
B. C. Durfee, receiver for The Big Shoe Emporium, yesterday accepted the offer of the Sheinwald Syndicate of Boston, Mass. Mr. Sheinwald was present in person, the amount paid was in cash, and is said to be approximately 40 cents on the dollar.
The transaction is the largest of its kind that has taken place in this city for years.
Mr. Durfee said after the completion of the deal to the Tribune representative: "I was in hopes that this fine stock of high grade shoes could have been kept in our city for the benefit of our own people, but Mr. Sheinwald's offer was accompanied by the cash, and I decided to accept it at the last minute."
Mr. Sheinwald will return to Boston today, having given orders for the erection of several gigantic signs on the building, and to ship the stock to Boston immediately.

B. & M. CRASH INJURES TWO

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 29.—Two men were badly injured in a rear end collision on the Concord division of the Boston & Maine railroad near South Danbury, early today.

The men were members of the crew of a north bound freight.

Amos J. Merchant of Concord, conductor of the freight, will probably die. The other man's name is not known. He was a brakeman.

The two men were in the caboose when it was telescoped by a wild engine. The wreck occurred just north of Danbury and within eight or ten miles of the scene of both the Canaan wrecks, the more recent of which occurred two weeks ago and killed two.

WRIGHT IN MARVELOUS NEW YORK AIR FLIGHT

spectacular than the first, there was plenty of excitement about the island during the whole proceedings. At the outset he made a complete circle of the island, turning, dipping or rising at will.

The airship was given a rousing greeting by every vessel that was near at hand. Ocean liners, ferryboats, tugs, and launches sent up a din of whistling that lasted for several minutes.

Persons around the Battery and on Governor's Island were just beginning to get excited over the preliminary exhibition given by Curtiss when Wright boarded the ferryboat Hancock at the Battery at 7.45 o'clock. Somebody told him that Curtiss had done well he smiled the smile which is characteristic of the Wright brothers, and said he was glad of it. Although it doesn't show on the surface, there is considerable rivalry between Wright and Curtiss as to which one of them shall capture the honors during the present aerial exhibitions.

Reporters Pull Out Airship.

When the Hancock, bound to Governor's Island, Wright went to the shed where his aeroplane was housed. His mechanics were waiting for him. A few army officers and a crowd of newspaper men were the only ones on hand waiting to witness the flight. Wright turned to the newspaper men:

"I'll have to ask you gentlemen to help me," he said. "I'll need some extra muscle to get the aeroplane out of the shed.

The newspaper men turned to with a will. The collapsible doors of the shed were thrown back, a space was cleared to the aeroplane and it was hauled outside. Meantime, Captain Halstead Borey of the Fourth Infantry, who has charge of the airship exhibition, sent for a half a dozen soldiers, who grasped the rope attached to the airship and hauled it along on temporary iron wheels to the "tilled" portion of the island, where the monorail had been put up. This monorail is about fifty feet long. As its name suggests it is a single rail, put together in ten sections. It slants downward and is used by Wright for getting his start.

The aeroplane was hauled to the eastern end of the rail and placed upon it, so that it faced the west. Wright then gave it a thorough overhauling which had been fastened in place by means of a heavy wire, which kept it from gliding down the rail.

Crowd Sees Start.

To the bottom of the airship was fastened a rascan canoe, which was intended to keep up the airship if it happened to fall into the water. Word that Wright was getting ready to fly quickly spread around the island and everyone who could get away began rushing to the southern end where the machine lay. There were about 150 women in the crowd. They were the wives, sisters and other relatives of the army officers. Captain Borey had to call out some soldiers to keep the crowd from interfering with the aviator.

Wright and his mechanician had trouble in starting the propellers of the aeroplane, which ran in opposite directions. Finally the engines began working and the propellers spun merrily.

The engines sputtered and roped like a racing automobile. Wright permitted them to run about four minutes, and then at 8.56 he got into the seat of the aeroplane, cut the rope that held it and the machine glided down the monorail. As the strike glided along it seemed that it would not leave the monorail.

To those who did not understand aviation it looked like the attempt would end in a fiasco. But just as it neared the end of the monorail Wright deflected his rudder and the airship shot up gracefully. It went up about fifteen feet and then dropped to within three feet of the earth.

One of Wright's Tricks.

The women in the crowd gasped. They thought it would be a failure. But it was only one of Wright's tricks. Again he deflected the rudder and the machine shot forward and rising about fifty more yards in a easterly direction. Then it turned south, turned back over the starting point and finally began to go around the island.

When Wright finished his first flight he had the machine left at the monorail. Curtiss, hearing of the Curtiss aviator's success, went up and said something to him. Wright and Curtiss are not on very good terms, because of sales over certain aircraft patents. Wright turned away, apparently without replying. The Hancock passed the aeroplane and Curtiss spoke to him, but Wright made no reply, and those on the aeroplane then looked upon it as a snub for Curtiss.

At 10.15 o'clock Wright started off on his second flight. This time he had the monorail changed so that it lay more northwest to southwest, and he started off in that direction. At first it was thought that this was Curtiss, causing the report that the International Cup race was flying to the harbor. Over Buttermilk channel Wright went, and then over the North river.

Saluted by Water Craft.

Here the water craft that were nearby began saluting. He sailed many over the ferryboat General Hancock and a States Island ferryboat. Wright ran his machine almost one mile in a time, then went out to the Liberty statue. As he neared it he circled around so small a one from Governor's Island that it seemed to be only a bird. Wright then started back to Governor's Island and made a landing within twenty feet of the monorail. While army officers were helping to haul the machine back to the monorail after the flight one of them stumbled and fell against one of the planes, breaking a portion of it. It was said that the break was not serious.

Wright passed directly in front and above the municipal ferryboat Queens on his way to the ferryboat St. George, when he started on the return trip from the statue. The boat was jammed with people, who gave a great cheer as the aeroplane passed. The captain of the boat ordered it in order that the passengers might see it plainly in full flight.

LOS ANGELES EXAMINER RAISES MONEY TO SAVE SCHOOLS BY BOND SALE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—The Los Angeles Examiner, associate of the BOSTON AMERICAN, to-day completed one of the most extraordinary campaigns in the history of American municipalities by overselling at popular subscription $720,000 worth of school bonds.

The achievement stands without a parallel from the standpoint of newspaper enterprise and the civic patriotism displayed by the citizens of Los Angeles.

The receipt to-day from President S. C. Dunham, of the Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford, Ct., of a subscription for 100 of the $1,000 bonds brings the grand total of popular pledges up to $815,000, an over-subscription of $95,000.

Nearly All From Los Angeles.

This is the only subscription that has come from an institution outside of Los Angeles and to-day would undoubtedly have been the tremendous task completed without the magnificent offer of the insurance company.

In addition to the sale of the bonds by popular subscription and in conducting an energetic campaign in behalf of the idea, the Examiner, in effect, superceded the authorities themselves, as the disposal of the securities was, per se, an official matter.

The necessity for such an unusual course became apparent two weeks ago, when the day came for receiving bids for $120,000 worth of school bonds, belonging to Jefferson school. There were no bids. For this failure of bond buyers to make an offer two causes were apparent. It was the low rate of interest, 4 per cent. The other was the fact that a public citizen had attacked the legality of the bond election, supposedly to satisfy the grudge of a local newspaper proprietor who had been attacking the superintendent of schools without effect.

Low Interest Rate.

When the bonds were voted, 4 per cent. seemed an attractive rate of interest, but the change in the money market made the rate too low. The situation became hopeless. The money for the bonds was urgently needed for the building of new schools. The great increase in population since the last school census made more room for the pupils imperative. The doubling up process and half-day sessions were resorted to, but even then hundreds of children could not gain admission.

There seemed no solution, and members of the board of education, the newspaper and citizens generally admitted that a crisis had been reached.

On September 15 L. A. Graves, president of the Los Angeles Clearing House, proposed to the Examiner that it start a popular subscription campaign. He himself headed the list with a subscription for one bond valued $1,000. William Randolph Hearst was next with a subscription himself and one for each of his sons, George Randolph Hearst and William Randolph Hearst, Jr.

The response to the Examiner's appeal was instant and overwhelming. The Examiner received all subscriptions and printed a daily roll of honor, which grew at the rate of $70,000 a day. Before the campaign was many days old the Los Angeles Clearing House banks subscribed for $250,000 worth of the bonds. Last Thursday there was a great street parade of school children and a mass meeting was held under the auspices of

METAL WORKERS GET WAGE RAISE

Boston Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 17 scale committee announces that an agreement had been made with all the big firms on the wage scale question.

The present wage is $2.80 a day for journeymen sheet metal workers. The union requested a $1 wage. Under the agreement made the minimum wage will be $3.75 a day on and after January 1 next, and the $4 a day minimum will go into effect June 1 of next year.

UMBRELLA TOOK SHOCK FROM POLE

Mrs. Sarah Anderson, thirty, living at No. 127 Fayette street, Lynn, received a shock as the result of her umbrella coming into contact with a piece of iron used to balance an arclight on Union street to-night during the storm.

Mrs. Anderson was removed to the Lynn General Hospital in an unconscious condition, and the physicians there stated later that she was suffering from a severe shock with probable internal injuries.

CAGED FRESHY GROWLS LIKE A BEAR AT GIRLS

When the young men and women students of Tufts College, Medford, poured out of Goddard Chapel to-day after the morning exercises, they found a wooden cage had been set up on the lawn facing the chapel, inside of which was C. J. Russell of Somerville, a freshman who was being hazed. Russell was stirred to activity from time to time by a sophomore who was on guard, and made him run back and forth, climb to the bars and growl loudly like a bear. The cage bore the sign, "Lets 'em Alive."

Growl some more for the crowds," his keeper would command. And Russell would growl louder than ever.

Finally the freshman broke through the wooden bars and ran away in his classroom.

This is the first big hazing stunt pulled off since college opened, though every one of the 120 members of the freshmen class is being hazed, usually in the dormitories. The co-eds are hazing, too.

Freshmen have been made to roll peanuts up and down the college walks with their noses and to sit under a table, and when an upper classman says "Light o'clock," to kick out their heels and crow, while a freshman on top of the table bombards the cuckoo with pillows.

A number of freshmen were rounded up last night and led to trees outside of the "Blind Cage," the girls' dormitory, and made to climb up the trees and sing love songs in the girls' windows.

The college authorities are not interfering with this mild hazing of freshmen, and there have been no brutal stunts perpetrated.

HAVERHILL MAN SHOT IN STRANGE MIX UP

HAVERHILL, Sept. 29.—A fusillade of shots in South street brought out the police on a general alarm hurry call, and Morris Belshock of No. 5 South street was found in a critical condition from a bullet wound in his head. The injured man was taken to the Hale Hospital.

The police were unable to ascertain the source of the bullet and made no arrests. Belshock and his wife heard shots fired in the street and were leaning out of a window of their tenement to see what the matter was when Belshock got his bit.

BAY STATE PILOTS IN BALLOON TEST

NORTH ADAMS, Sept. 29.—In the coming Bay State balloon endurance race Massachusetts is to be represented by two, possibly three, pilots. H. N. Arnold will be the chief aeronaut and conqueror. Clifford H. Harmon of New York, who has qualified as a pilot in this State, will pilot the balloon. Frank H. Interment will be made in the family lot at St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

TWO SOCIETY GIRLS BECOME BRIDES TODAY

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Though any number of weddings are scheduled for to-day, those of Miss Grace Croll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jenks Croll of Beacon street, to Thaddeus Coffin Derbez, jr., of Brookline, and that of Miss Madeline Hawes to Wendell Morse, jr., are socially speaking, the only ones of importance. The Derbez-Croll wedding took place at noon at Trinity Church, in Manchester, the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann officiating. Miss Croll, who is petite and pretty, is a member of the Vincent Club and one of the best liked girls of her set. She was attended by her twin sister, Miss Pauline Croll, as maid of honor. George Gund, Harvard '09, of Seattle, Wash., was the groom's best man. His ushers were Edward T. Dana, son of Richard H. Dana of Cambridge, Harvard '09, Joseph Leland of Brookline and Norman Harrower of Worchester, of the same class, and J. Sidney Stone, Harvard '05.

The wedding was simple, as the Croll's are in mourning. A small reception and breakfast followed the church ceremony at Annapolis, the Croll summer villa at Manchester. After their return from the honeymoon the young couple will reside in Brookline.

Mr. Derbez, who is a son of W. P. Derbez of Brookline, is a Harvard '09 man.

The wedding of Miss Madeline Hawes, daughter of Mrs. Edward H. Hawes, and Edwin Wendell Morse, jr., takes place at 8 o'clock this evening at Sears Chapel in Longwood. The Rev. Arthur Little-field will perform the ceremony. Miss Marion Seaver will be maid of honor and the best man, Ethelbert E. Emerson.

The bride will be given away by her brother, Bruce Hawes. The list of ushers includes Winthrop Cushing Richmond, Myles Standish Richmond, Victor Belcher, Carroll Livingstone Perkins, A. Cecil Butler and Bryant Hawes. A brother of the bride-elect, A small reception at the home of Miss Hawes's aunt, Mrs. Frederick Lothrop Ames, 30 Beacon street, will follow the ceremony. Miss Hawes is a granddaughter of the late Samuel Atherton, and Mr. Morse is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Morse of Brookline. After a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Morse will be at their home in Park street, Brookline.

More than two hundred entries have been received for the dog show in the town hall at Lenox to-morrow, and the affair will be the society event of the week. The exhibition includes most of the dog owners in the Berkshire, but the largest exhibitors will be Mrs. Frank K. Sturgis, Miss Melville Moore, Miss Gertrude Parsons, Miss Nora Iasigi, Mrs. William D. Sloane, Mrs. Robert Roberts Sedgwick, Miss Alice Sedgwick, Miss Elizabeth Turnure, Miss Civilese Alexander, Frederic R. Hopgood, Henry Hollister Pease, William D. Curtis, Girard Foster, Spencer D. Shotter and S. Parkman Shaw.

REAL ESTATE CONTINUES IN GOOD DEMAND

Brokers in real estate continues to report good business and the volume of sales today was fairly large.

In the South End Eliza A. Disbrow, individually and as administrator, has sold to Margaret M. Sullivan the two and one-half-story brick house and 852 square feet of land at No. 73 Oak street, near Hudson and Tyler streets. The property is rated for a fund valuation of $3,900, of which $1,900 is on the land.

William H. Woodman and A. Wilbert Starratt have sold their property numbered 1108 Boylston street to Charles D. Kissock. The property consists of a single-brick house and 2,200 feet of land, all assessed for $17,000. Louis W. Ewald was the broker.

William H. Woodman sold A. Wilbert Starratt his three-story property numbered 24-26-28-30 Hudson street, Brookline, consisting of two single-brick and one double house, to William Lewis Sullivan. The total assessment is $30,700. The conveyance was for investment. Louis W. Ewald was the broker.

William Canman has sold his property at Nos. 282 to 286 Somerville avenue, No. 30 Evans street, Somerville, to William H. Woodman and A. Wilbert Starratt, to consist of a large three blacksmith shop, a two-family house and 18,000 feet of land. Louis W. Ewald was the broker.

Mary E. Ewald has sold to Angelo Monte the two-story and L property numbered 1-3 Read street, Roxbury, containing 2,200 square feet of land at No. 163 Eustis street, Roxbury, to Ewald place for a total of $5,000, of which $900 is on the land.

In the same district a lot of land containing 2,663 square feet and assessed for $900, on the corner of Eustis and Read streets, has been sold by James Corsano et ux to Angelo Puorro.

Frank Sullivan has conveyed land sold to John Sullivan two frame houses and 2,582 square feet of land on the corner of Bowdoin and Park streets, Roxbury. The state is taxed for a total valuation of $11,000, of which $1,500 is on the land.

In West Roxbury, Louis A. Allen has sold to Andrew Lubbert et ux the single-house and 3,900 square feet of land at No. 113 Chestnut street, West Roxbury. Ewald Bros. conveyed to Patrick Farren et ux land and house containing 1,923,344 square feet on Brighton street, Roxbury, to Park Pl. Realty Co. Basis of the deed is $1,000. Ewald Bros. is taking house on the property, the total valuation of land and building being $3,500.

The week has opened with four sales of Medford real estate. Charles Sumner, one of the real estate agents in Medford square, reports the sale of the two-family house, No. 23 Ashland street, to George Mitchell, who is to occupy and remodel the house for his home.

Real estate men make much of the sale of the large Archibald property, at No. 5 Pleasant street, to Mrs. Frances Archibald Bennett, who buys for a home; also the purchase of a large lot of land on Prospect Park Pl. by Dean of the George Nicholas Co., who is having plans prepared for a handsome residence.

MOORS DRIVEN FROM HEIGHTS WAR NEAR END

MADRID, Sept. 29.—The Melilla stronghold of the Moors at Mellizi was captured by the Spanish troops to-day, when the Moorish garrison was successfully stormed by General Marina's army, according to dispatches received here. The Moors abandoned row fronts from the top of the mountain fastness from which the Spanish troops had so long been barred, and which the tribesmen believed was invulnerable. The Spanish losses in the engagement are reported as insignificant, while the Moors are said to have been heavily and to have been completely routed.

Madrid is preparing to celebrate the victory, which is considered virtually to have ended the war, and the city will be brilliantly illuminated to-night.

During the past seventy-two hours the firing has been continuous, while the tribesmen tried to check the advance of the Spanish. Captain Fortescue of the United States army, who is with the Spanish army as a war correspondent for the London Standard, had a very narrow escape from death when the first of a detachment of Moors and a squadron of Spanish troops was directed upon him at 100 yards.

SKIPPER KEEPS EYE ON CHINESE CREW

The captain of the British steamer Strathstay, which got here from Java today with 6,000,000 pounds of sugar, is a very anxious man and he will continue to sit on the anxious seat until he sails in a week. He has a crew of twenty-five Chinamen and for each one that escapes his vigilance and gets ashore he is liable to a fine of $500. In order that he may not have to pay a fine that might total $12,500 he has the Chinamen carefully guarded and not one of them is allowed to reach the dock.

MYSTERY IN SUICIDE OF C. R. BABSON

Charles R. Babson, a dealer in patents, killed himself by gas early to-day in his office in the Meredith building, No. 177 Commerce street. The police and medical examiner are unable to establish a motive.

Babson had been in poor health for years. Babson had placed a gas tube in his mouth and covered his head with an overcoat.

He is said to have lived at No. 157 Walnut street, Gloucester. Babson was formerly a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. A member of that organization called at the dead man's office to-day and identified him. He said that Babson had resigned from the company some time ago.

In the wall in the office was a diploma from the Massachusetts Charitable Association, dated 1887, giving Mr. Babson an honor for perfect attendance. It is supposed that financial difficulties led to the suicide. The janitor at the Meredith building said that Mr. Babson had grown thin during the last few months, and that whereas he had once been fastidious about his clothes he had recently become careless.

Babson was unmarried. For more than thirty years he had lived in the vicinity of Bowdoin square, but recently he had removed to Gloucester.

FAMILY OF ELEVEN SLAIN BY ROBBERS

ODESSA, Sept. 29.—Brutal tortures were inflicted by a band of robbers at Olchevatsk, who murdered a millionaire land owner named Achirasky, his wife and family of eleven persons, plundering the residence and escaping with a great quantity of loot. The robbers broke down the door of the mansion and prevented the escape of any member of the family. They with wines from casks which they broke open in the cellar, the robbers murdered the family, in cold blood, killing the children before their parents eyes. Then they collected their plunder, set fire to the mansion and rode away.

FIALA REVIEWS PEARY CHARGES AGAINST COOK

By ANTONHY FIALA,
Commander of the Ziegler Polar Expedition of 1903-05.

For the benefit of the AMERICAN'S readers I present an analysis of the fourteen counts in Commissioner Bell's arraignment of Dr. Cook. The charges and my comments follow seriatim:

First—That Mr. Peary and Matt Henson either individually or together talked with every member of the Smith Sound tribe of Eskimos and obtained testimony that corroborates that of E-Tuck-A-Shue and A-Pod-Lah, the Eskimos, who swore that Dr. Cook, that Dr. Cook had not been out of sight of land.

A very serious charge. But if the testimony of the Eskimos can be accepted at all and their observations of distances on the Polar Ice be depended upon, then I would hardly be thought fair to say that knowing the Eskimos would have been so extremely foolish as to have come back from the pack ice with a story of having reached the Pole without even having tried to drop the land behind his southern horizon, a thing which he could have accomplished easily.

Second—That in violation of a custom of Arctic exploration, Dr. Cook has not brought back records of his observations at points he asserts he had reached, notably the one left at Cape Thomas Hubbard in 1906 by Mr. Peary.

Cape Thomas Hubbard covers a large space, and Dr. Cook could not be censured for thinking that as he was on a march to the Pole he would not stop to search for a signal cairn and dig up records. Further, Captain Sverdrup had practically explored and mapped the country through which he was traveling, so there was even no necessity to dig up records, unless he had reason to think that they would be needed to prove his position.

Third—That Dr. Cook's story that he traveled from Annotok to the Pole and then back to Jesse's Sound, a distance of more than twenty-five hundred miles, or about seventeen hundred miles, in one sledging season, is impossible. He points out that this is more than twice the best previous record of eleven degrees, and Mr. Peary's best record this year of fourteen degrees.

Given good ice, which both Peary and Cook seem to have been fortunate to find, the distance covered by Cook is not so astonishing.

Fourth—That his general equipment was such that it would be a physical impossibility to have accomplished the feat.

A charge very easily made, but of no value without a qualifying statement in detail criticizing the parts of equipment condemned.

Fifth—That Dr. Cook maintains he carried with a glass mercurial barometer his trip of 1,700 miles, whereas Mr. Peary used a cast iron barometer, so that it would not only be saved from being broken, but could be relied on than the mercury froze. This is necessary sometimes. Mr. Peary reports that the mercury freezes at minus 35. Dr. Cook reports finding it as low as minus 73 degrees.

As I understand it from Dr. Cook's narrative he carried a glass boiling, not a "glass mercurial barometer," Mercury freezes, so Dr. Cook carried a boiling outfit by the use of which a glass plate is set in a brass frame and provided with a sighting vane. An artificial horizon of the above form is also a practicable one for cold weather. The cumbersome iron bottle of mercury with its cover, glasses, etc., is of no use for sledge use.

Sixth.—That Professor Marvin brought back from 86 degrees 38 minutes, duplicate records of Mr. Peary's march and of his own to prove absolutely that Mr. Peary reached that latitude.

Seventh — That Captain Bartlett brought back from 87 degrees, 48 minutes duplicate records of Mr. Peary's march and of his own to prove absolutely that Mr. Peary reached that latitude.

Points 6 and 7 carry weight. There could hardly be doubt that Peary had reached 87 degrees 48 minutes north latitude, for he has the testimony to the records of Professor Marvin and Captain Bartlett to substantiate his own observations up to the time that Captain Bartlett left him to go South.

Up to the time of Captain Bartlett's departure Peary enjoys a decided advantage over Cook in the controversy, as he has two witnesses who can help decidedly when it comes to a question of veracity between the two explorers.

Eighth—That the sledge of Dr. Cook was of such a type, not built on the lines of any Arctic explorer's sledge, that it could not possibly have served for a march of a day with a standard load of five or six hundred pounds. It must have been a very light load that could not last a day.

Of course, the point Peary ought to know. He has used sledges for over twenty years in his long Polar search.

Dr. Cook reached Etah, however, without dogs. He had to have hauled their poor little load of records and frozen meat themselves. They would hardly be expected to drag a heavy dog sledge, constructed for use on the pack ice, the three hundred miles from their Winter hut in Jones Sound to the station at Etah.

Ninth, that Dr. Cook's snow shoes were of an impracticable type for use in the Arctic and were not the kind that would conduce to speed.

On the hard snow of the polar pack snowshoes are almost unnecessary. Captain Cagni and his men used no snow shoes, and they held the best marching record on the polar ice until broken by Cook and Peary in 1908-1909. Cagni averaged seven miles a day with his record breaking journey to 86 degrees 34 minutes, while the two best days were made by Peary, who averaged five miles a day to ninety, 87 degrees 6 minutes north latitude, and Nansen, who reached 86 degrees at a daily average of five miles.

Tenth—That Dr. Cook's leaving of his records at Etah was a scheme on his part in which he could claim they were lost or destroyed, and so could escape being forced to produce them to substantiate his claims.

Peary's failure to bring Cook's effects home makes his charge unreasonable, as he was purposeless criminis.

Eleventh—That no man who had carried the American flag to the Pole would leave such a slight and easily transported article in charge of a perfect stranger.

I do not see myself why Dr. Cook should have left the flag, etc., behind—unless he had the fear in his heart that he might never reach civilization, and was anxious in that event that his great discovery should not be lost to the world.

Twelfth—That Dr. Cook did have fresh dog teams from Etah and could have carried his burdens to Upernivik.

Thirteenth—That when Harry Whitney went on board the Jeanie he did not take time to go back to Etah and get the articles he must have known were valuable to Dr. Cook.

Fourteenth—That if Dr. Cook did leave such priceless articles at the Eskimo village Mr. Whitney would have been anxious to have them rushed to the United States.

Points 12, 13 and 14 do not seem to have any particular bearing on the Polar questions. They are points which owe their existence only to the fact that the records and instruments have not been brought home as arranged for by Dr. Cook.

COOK RECEIVES $25,000 FOR NEWS STORY OF POLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Dr. F. A. Cook received $25,000 for his newspaper story of his discovery of the Pole. The New York Herald yesterday handed him a check for the sum. The Herald says to-day in its editorial columns:

"In the plaudits of his admiring countrymen, Dr. Frederick A. Cook is now reaping one part of his reward, and the other part, namely, the tangible recompense of success, is also beginning to materialize.

"In a few days the explorer will start on a lecture tour that cannot fail to be remunerative, but the Herald may justly claim a higher set the financial ball rolling yesterday when its treasurer handed to Dr. Cook a check for $25,000 in payment for his stirring narrative of the conquest of the North Pole.

"The Herald, notwithstanding the heavy cost of Dr. Cook's first cablegram, $3,000, and of his more detailed narrative, $25,000, decided to place it at the disposition of all the readers of its enterprising journal, so that $28,000 is not an exorbitant fee for the exclusive account of that epoch-making achievement—the conquest of the Pole after centuries of unavailing effort.

SENDS FUNDS TO FREE SWEETHEART

From Rome to Boston traveled Francesca Marzi, prospective bride of Augustino Fermino of Joliet, Ill. She was questioned by the immigration authorities and detained. Francesca had transportation to Joliet, but she was minus sufficient funds to enable her to reach her destination without getting very hungry. In response to a telegram Fermino sifted $25. Francesca left to-day for the West.

LOSES FAMILY AWAITING END OF THE WORLD

John McWilliams of No. 41 Ninth street, Newark, N. J., lost $80 and his wife and two daughters through waiting at Ashfield, outside Duxbury, for the coming of the end of the world and the advent of Christ. Mr. McWilliams walked into Boston from Duxbury last night, and told his troubles to-day to the BOSTON AMERICAN.

"Seven of us 'Latter Reigners' left Newark to come and wait the end of the world," said Mr. McWilliams. "My wife and my two daughters told me when I left home that if I came back I could not come back to them. They called me crazy, and I guess I was. I'm willing to admit it now.

"I was at Duxbury ten days. We gave all we had. The only thing I kept was fifteen cents. I knew that Jesus loved the workingman. The Lord didn't come. I had written my wife and she answered and said that she was going to she a bill for divorce. I feel worse about losing her than anything else. This movement in Duxbury has parted more husbands and wives than any other one thing I know of. I met a woman from the West at Ashfield. She received a letter from her husband. He told her if she didn't come home he would sell their home and move away. She telegraphed back: 'All right, Jesus is coming.' She didn't have any particular regard on the Polar questions. They are points which owe their existence only to the fact that the records and instruments have not been brought home as arranged for by Dr. Cook.

"At one of the meetings, where untold sights were exhibited, a woman jumped up and shouted 'Jesus is coming.' She fell to the floor. We all crowded up around her and I was very near her. If I ever saw a dead body that woman was dead. She was carried upstairs and I saw no more of her. I can't prove it, but I believe she died of grief. I have been a fool, foolish. I see it all now. If I get back to my wife and children they may forgive me there will be no more of these queer religions for me. I shall go to a regular church with my wife."

FULL PARDON IS ASKED FOR TWO CHINESE

A petition for absolute pardon for Warr S. Charles and Joe Guey, who with three other Chinese are under sentence of death for the killing of four Chinese on Oxford place on the evening of August 2, 1905. The Governor will soon announce a date for a hearing on the petition.

General Bartlett, after filing the petition, said that there was nothing to be said about it, but that some very important developments in the case might be expected shortly.

Charles and Guey were sentenced to be electrocuted on October 1st. Moy Sing, Leong Gong and Hom Woon were sentenced to the same penalty, but the date of execution was not fixed.

Warren Charles was a court interpreter and was always considered a law-abiding man. His son, Warren Charles, Jr., is a New York policeman, has enlisted the aid of the Army and Navy Union, of which he is a member, in his efforts to rescue the father from the chair. Mrs. Charles, who is white, is also working hard. She says that the killing of the other man her husband was the work of rivals in the Chinese lodge, and that their testimony was perjured.

Mrs. Sing Leong Gong and Hom Woon will to-morrow be removed from the Charles street jail to the state prison at Walpole, where they will pass their cells in the execution chamber until they pay the penalty of the law.

Joe Guey and Warry Charles will be taken to the prison Thursday, October 7, and will be placed in cells of the "condemned" division, to remain until after the execution of their countrymen, when they will be removed to cells outside the execution chamber, which are within 25 or 30 feet of the electric chair.

For the executions Warden B. F. Bridges usually arises at 4 o'clock, shortly after the sunrise of the weeks beginning Oct. 19 and 17. The shade electric chair will be used for the five executions.

EVERY DAY KICKERS' DAY IN BOSTON, SAYS MAYOR'S SECRETARY

"Well have no 'Kickers' Day' in Boston."

Mayor's Secretary "Jimmy" White said this to-day with a conviction that left no doubt that the secretary of Mayor Gaynor of Cincinnati to have a special day set aside when all persons with a grouch or a grievance can come to City Hall and pour their tale of woe into the ear of the chief magistrate was one that did not appeal to Mayor Hibbard.

"Between you and me," said the secretary, patting the reporter affectionately on the back, "you see it isn't necessary here. Everybody knows where the Mayor's office is and pretty nearly everybody with a grouch comes here. We'd rather have them come one at a time than all in a bunch. See the point?"

Every Day Kickers' Day.

"Yes, the Mayor is in, but he will be very busy for some time," said the secretary interrupting for a moment to speak to a caller. "What, grass is growing on the street in Blakeville street, and you want to see the Mayor about it. Well, I called that to the attention of Superintendent Emerson yesterday and he told me it will be cut in a week. Sure. I quite with you. It is an outrage, but it will be cut in a week."

"You see every day is 'Kickers' Day here," said the secretary, resuming the interrupted conversation. "Excuse me a moment."

A two minutes conversation ioetto the effect occurred outside the cell of the outer office. Then this verbal explosion.—"Well, I think there was thinning done there, but it will be done. Never mind about the expense. Put done with this administration. You've got a right to complain. I followed by the slamming of the outer door and a return with a loud bang.

Assistant Secretary Bondrot was observed in the meantime over to another corner ceremoniously endeavoring to appease the wrath of a swearing foreigner who wanted to see the Mayor for the purpose of finding out why his way to the poor house could not be to work without a certificate from the overseers of the poor. "A petition of Boston has a right to see his mayor," said the caller, modestly. "But," etc., said Mr. Boudrot, and another visitor, with a green complexion disappeared.

"That idea don't make a hit with me at all," said "Jimmy" musing the conversation. "You see, if we did that, everybody that was dissatisfied with the ways the streets were often would come and it is against a quiet Fourth of July another that is against crossing plays, a thousand more that want jobs, and probably a number that would like to see the Mayor to tell the Mayor what they think of him would be liable to come in, and it would take more than a day to handle them."

Galvin Wants Those Four Votes.

All other comments, to the contrary, the youngest kid who ever heard here is from friends of Mitch Galvin, who thinks he should have gotten the four votes necessary to make his congressman," continued Jimmy, as the administration smile, which had been absent for a few moments, returned to his visage.

"Not because we're complaining, but just to show you the variety of kicks that come to our attention in the common course of events, a lady from Brighton insisted upon seeing me this morning and pouring into my ear the story of how she was denied a free transfer at the corner of Dartford street and Massachusetts avenue to-day. She thought that as long as the papers were used by the Herald the Mayor ought to have enough influence to get her a free transfer in spite of a refusal to any point where she wanted to go. The poor lady was in tears. Never mind what I said to her. Suffice it to say that I had from someone who is getting too much salary and who is afraid of losing it.

"So sum it all up, kickers' day doesn't suit me at all," concluded White, and since Jimmy is the big man of the administration, what he says is liable to go.

REALTY MAN ASKS DIVORCE

Edward S. Tompson, a real estate dealer, with offices at No. 294 Washington street and a prominent resident of Brookline, to-day brought suit for divorce against his wife, Sarah F. Tompson, in the superior Court of Norfolk county in Dedham. In his petition Mr. Tompson names Louis R. Broadhead of Elizabeth, N. J.

Tompson and his wife for years have been prominent members of Brookline society. The divorce suit filed to-day comes as the result of Mrs. Tompson and Louis Broadhead being sentenced to six months in the Cambridge jail by Judge Prendergast. The man and woman were arrested in Narragansett Hotel in that city, were arraigned and tried in Providence same as a sensation in Brookline.

Mrs. Tompson is the daughter of Captain Rufus Caudage, former member of the Board of Assessors of Brookline and a retired sea captain. Mr. Tompson was formerly cashier at the Parker House in this city. He asks for the custody of his two children, Carl C., born March 25, 1905, and Samuel S., born February 1, 1907.

MORE RAIN IS ON WAY HERE

If the local forecaster reads the signs of the skies aright the burst of sunshine and clear weather which delighted Boston to-day is but a flash in the pan and clouds and showers are bound this way.

Increasing cloudiness followed by showers late to-night and Thursday is the most encouraging prediction made by the forecaster for Boston and vicinity.

There was a heavy frost at Northfield, Vt., last night. The temperature at 8 o'clock in Boston was 52 degrees. The humidity was 80 per cent. Jupiter, Pluto, Mercury and the moon are in the evening sky. The number registered 76. It was 52 at North Adams.

General rains are reported from the upper lake regions. They're on their way here.

DEATH AND DAMAGE BY WELSH FLOODS

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Several deaths and heavy property damage have been reported from the southern part of Wales caused by floods following heavy rains. Many areas are under water, mines are flooded and crops destroyed. The telegraph and railway lines are crippled.

NOTED MODELS GO UP HUDSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The dumpy little sailship Half Moon, after an absence of 300 years, made a second voyage up the Hudson River to-day, although not under the command of Henry Hudson. Churning along beside the Half Moon was the Clermont, the duplicate of the first steamboat which passed over the same course 102 years ago, or 208 years after the historic voyage of the Half Moon.

Both ships were conveyed by a squadron of vessels. The voyage was the only big water event to-day in the Hudson-Fulton celebration. The ships left their anchorage at the Battery and Tenth street at 9:30, and the voyage was made slowly to Spuyten Duyvil, the first stop in the journey ended. To-night the boats will leave for Albany and other intermediate points.

Elsewhere were held to-day in all ethical Hudson-Fulton festivities. Various patriotic societies dedicated tablets and memorials in New York both New York University and the College of the City of New York held special services.

The Bronx came into the limelight to-day with a military and civic parade. Next came the reception for official guests of the Hudson-Fulton Commission at the military academy at West Point, with luncheon in Memorial Hall and inspection of the Cadet Corps. The crews of the fighting ships anchored in Hudson River, gave a touch of sport to the program to-day.

An electrical display under the auspices of the Hudson-Fulton Commission will take place at Grant's tomb over to-night, with a notable array of guests.

BURGLARS GET $1,700 IN RAID

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 29.—Burglars did a slick piece of work at the residence of John W. Hogan of Elmhurst avenue, early to-day, getting $250 cash and jewelry that made the total of the haul $1,700.

Hogan is one of the leading lawyers of this city. The cash received belonged to his brother, Richard, who was at the home and remained up until 2 o'clock. The thieves quietly climbed in through a rear window that was open, and operated so quietly that they got away without awakening any one in the house. Entrance from a building that was supposed to be on the job for just such emergencies.

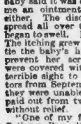
BABY'S ITCHING WAS INTOLERABLE

Girl of Six Months had Fearful Attack of Eczema—Spread All Over Her Face and Eyes Began to Swell—Scratched Till Blood Came—Relieved in a Night and

CURED BY CUTICURA AFTER LONG SUFFERING



"When my little girl was six months old I noticed small red spots on her right cheek. I did not pay any attention to them but finally the spots grew so large that I sent for the doctor who said it was ringworm. He prescribed an ointment which I used for two weeks, but instead of helping the eruption the ointment seemed to make it worse. Then I went to a second doctor who after examining the baby said it was eczema. He also gave me an ointment which did not help either. The disease in the meantime spread all over the face and the eyes began to swell. I became very anxious. The itching grew intolerable. I had to tie the baby's hands to the cradle to prevent her scratching. The cheeks were covered with blood and it was a terrible sight to see. I consulted doctors from September to December, but they were unable to cure the baby. I paid out from twenty to thirty dollars without relief.

"One of my friends told me of the Cuticura Remedies and I sent at once for a set which I began to use that evening. The next morning the baby's face was all white instead of red and you can imagine how surprised I was. I cannot find words enough to praise Cuticura and I do not know what would have become of my baby only for it. I used the Cuticura Remedies until the eczema entirely disappeared. The child is now three years old and quite well. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and I never use any other soap. I always recommend them whenever there is a chance for doing so. I will send you one of her pictures which she had taken just after she was healed. Mrs. F. E. Gumbin, Sheldon Ia., July 13, 1908."

Why Raw Milk Costs More Than Van Camp's

The main cost of milkman's milk lies in the cost of delivery. That's why Van Camp's rich Holstein milk costs less than immensely inferior milk.

The daily milk delivery is not only bothersome. It is also very expensive.

More than half that you pay the milkman goes to cover the cost of his petty deliveries.

With Van Camp's you buy a month's supply in advance. Then you have all you want all the time.

Our dairies are everywhere, so the shipments are short. And we evaporate most of the water.

That's why Van Camp's, when you replace the water, costs only six cents per quart.

Healthy Holstein Cows

Our cows are Holsteins—the world's best breed. Robust, contented, famous for their splendid vitality.

Holstein milk is immeasurably better than the milk from mongrel cows.

These cows are all inspected. Millions of tubercular cows are killed every day, but not one can be found in our herds.

This milk, fresh from the cow, is placed in a vacuum. And a moderate heat, because of the vacuum, throws off the water in steam.

Thus we throw off two-thirds of the water, and the milk that results is as thick as thick cream. When you replace this water you have a multiplied bulk, as rich as the richest milk.

Delicious Milk Dishes

Van Camp's is superb milk for cooking. The richness and flavor is twice that of raw milk.

For milkman's milk separates. The butter fat rises and the solids fall. From no part of the can do you get the whole milk.

Then it separates farther after you get it. So, the milk usually used for cooking is rarely more than a half milk.

Van Camp's is whole milk. The taste of one milk dish will be sufficient to make you a constant user.

Vastly Economical

Van Camp's costs ten cents per pint by the can, and less by the case. When reduced to the richness of milkman's milk, it costs about six cents per quart.

It is cheaper than milkman's milk, because of the saving on the cost of delivery.

But the main saving comes in the saving of waste. With Van Camp's, no milk is left over. You open a can when you want it, and it keeps till you use it up.

And you never run short, for you have the cow in the pantry. Rich milk or cream for any purpose all the time. You don't need to plan in advance.

Perfectly Sterile

Van Camp's Milk is sterilized after the cans are sealed. There is not a germ of any kind in it.

The slight almond flavor is due to this sterilization. It is the flavor of heated milk.

The result is a milk that is safe. Children can drink it without a thought of infection.

In the use of raw milk, infection at some time is almost inevitable. The infection may come from tubercular cows, from diseased milkmen, from unCleanly dairies, from the water used in washing cans.

Raw milk is more dangerous than raw meat, and the whole medical world protests against its use. Soon or late, all careful people must come to a sterilized milk like Van Camp's.

None is Like This

There are two reasons why Van Camp's Milk is the premier milk of its kind.

First, it is Holstein milk, with which no milk from mongrel cows compares. Second, it is reduced to the minimum. Every can will show 28 per cent solids—8 per cent butter fat.

Others may claim that inferior milk, only slightly reduced, is as good as Van Camp's. But millions know better.

In addition, there is condensed milk—almost half sugar. It is nothing at all like Van Camp's.

The modern way for preserving milk is sterilization, not sugar. It is folly to pay the milk price for sugar, and then get a milk too sweet for use in cooking.

Those who use inferior milk will eventually come to Van Camp's. The demand for the best has become so great that we now milk 25,000 cows daily.

The 16-oz. can of Van Camp's sells for 10 cents; the 6-oz. can for 5 cents. You get one-third more for your money in buying the larger cans. Our dairies are located in six states. The milk is sold by grocers everywhere.

Mutt Had No Idea That Womn's Clothes Cost So Much---By Bud Fisher.

JOHNSON AND KETCHEL WORK HARD FOR BOUT

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Jack Johnson and Stanley Ketchel have struck their gait in the matter of training and the daily work at their rival camps will very little from now until the date of the fight at Coffroth's arena. Each man will do road work in the mornings and afternoons will be devoted to indoor stunts, the program culminating with live work. Johnson's principal sparring partner during the balance of his preparation will be Dave Mills, a rear-bossed imitator of Ketchel, who has a penchant for putting his partners out of business, probably will spar with a dozen different men before he breaks camp.

The one thing made manifest so far is that Johnson and Ketchel show great earnestness in everything they do. As a natural result a big fight is near at hand. Whispers are to be heard reflecting on the actions of the principals. Up to the present Jeanie Gerard has handled herself with Johnson's name only, and there are stories afloat that he has been seen in the city by the way small hours.

All that can be said in this connection is that if Johnson fought as he plays by stealing a few hours from the night, his work at the quarters would be that he tries hard to make up for his lapses.

The writer has seen Johnson a few times and never saw him work as steadily as he is doing at present. This fact has made itself apparent to others, and it has caused the impression to form that Johnson has more respect for Ketchel than for his average opponent. For that matter, Johnson admits as much, as the favorite remark with him is:

"You will see a champion of the world in the proper shape this time."

Johnson has gone further and has admitted to a few of his closest friends that one of his reasons for not getting on with postponement was that he did not care to allow Ketchel more time than was necessary to train for the battle.

Tommy Burns, who was in Auckland, N. Z., at the end of last month, sends word that he has decided to seek another crack at Johnson if the chance presents itself.

In a letter to the writer, Burns says: "I have had a successful tour and am moving for Sydney again in a few days. If I don't meet a big bull in Sydney I'll be off to America for a visit, but will return to Australia, as I like the country and the people.

"I would like to get a return match with Johnson while he is champion."

MELODY IS AFTER THE WELTERS

Alack McLean is around town with a chip on his shoulder and his hands full of money that he is waving at various so-called welterweight champions. He deposited $250 of his roll with the sporting editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN today to show that he means business from a Honey Melody standpoint.

"There is only one welterweight champion and his name is Melody," declared Colonel McLean. "He won his title on the proper weight, 142 pounds at 4 o'clock, when he defeated Joe Walcott a couple of years ago. Since then the title has never been taken away from him. When Leach Cross beat him at Paris they fought at catch weights.

"I have $250 deposited with you and I want to hear from some of these alleged champions. Melody is ready to make a match with any of them and I will let the forfeit go up a side, but with the fervent hope that they don't.

"Melody is up in Maine getting in condition for a Winter's campaign and he will beat some of the wise ones who think he is all in."

CHAPIN RETURNS FROM TRIP ABROAD

E. D. Chapin, treasurer and general manager of the Chalmers-Detroit Motor Company, returned a few days ago from a two months' visit to Europe. While abroad Mr. Chapin witnessed the aviation tournament at Rheims, France, and returned to this country on the same steamer with Glenn H. Curtiss, who won the Gordon Bennett international trophy. Regarding conditions in the automobile industry in Europe Mr. Chapin says:

"Our business depression of 1907 affected the automobile industry in Europe more seriously, as, of course, the panic was reflected in the business of all European countries. The industry is again looking into its own over there, however, and the big companies who are producing motor cars are all busy.

"I went through the factory of almost every large manufacturer in Europe and found that, as a rule, they are employed with very fine machinery and capable of turning out high quality cars. Almost without exception, the plants are of single story construction, whereas our most modern type of American automobile factory consists of the re-inforced concrete three or four-storied type.

Baseball Notes

It is known that President Powers of the Eastern League is in favor of one post-season series between the winners of the first half of the league and the champions of the American Association.

Joe McGinnity is the star fielder of the Eastern League, according to the averages. He has handled 87 put-outs in 90 innings, without making an error. Joe is also leading in batting at that time, with an average of .333.

Manager Mack, of the Athletics, says that he will not take a chance on losing the pennant by selling any of his star players. He says that he will not sell Baker, Bender or Coombs, but that he will be willing to dispose of Plank, Thomas or Lapp. Mack says that he will not sell Plank for $20,000, as reported.

The Athletics' manager has not yet decided whether he will send his world's series ticket money to Pittsburg or the Pirates will send it to Philadelphia. Mack says that the Athletics are entitled to the money, as they received it from the Pittsburg club, in addition to receiving $1,000 apiece from the Pirates for their services in the world's series

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

GET OUT, ALL YOU FANS, AND root your heads off, for during the next three days you're going to see baseball that is real baseball. The dealer in the weather game has shuffled up a new deck and promises to pass up all top-and-bottom work, briefs, bags, spots and stripers during the time the Tigers are here, and if he has enough red corpuscles in what he calls his blood to go through with this, you are going to see a pennant decided right here in Boston. A whole lot of you knockers will still harp on the fact that the Red Sox are not in the fight for the flag, but what of it? They're the gamest bunch of players you ever had representing Boston, and more power to them for holding third! It is a much better position than you gave them during the early stages of the season's play and you should be as proud of them for getting the show money in the race as the Philadelphia rooters will be of the Athletics if they land the bunting. The nicest old gink in history—I forget his name—couldn't fathom the working of a baseball bug's mind, so I suppose a lot of you rabid ones will still be rapping until the season opens in 1910.

AFTER THE BOUTS AT THE ARmory last night I heard several of the club members figure it out that the Dixie Kid would have put up a better fight if he had not been scared of Sam Langford and you can gamble that this is right. There are a whole lot of other boxers who are much better known to fame who are just as scared—many of them so badly that they won't even get into the ring with him, and even for what he did the Kid deserved the good will of Lord Lonsdale of the game. No one figured that he had a chance with Sam and it was evident that the local boniface could have put his man away any time he wanted to, but at that it was an interesting entertainment while it lasted. It looks to me as if there are a whole lot of middleweights in this neck of woods who would be kept very busy thumping the nails of the Dixie Kid, and I would like to see the Armory Club put him on soon with some one more in his own class.

WELL, WE'LL KNOW ALL ABOUT it next week, for Jimmy de Jeff is coming home. He says he is anxious to get at the black champion, as the latter's showing against Al Kaufman makes him look like a dirty dance in a new deck. BUT—the boilermaker will not talk business with the negro unless Kordell is decisively trimmed. When that trick is turned and Jake is from me it will be turned unless Tex Rickard combines with Tom Andrews, de Kordell, as they did with Langford—Jeff says he will lose no time in signing articles and posting a forfeit that will compel Johnson to meet him in a forty-five round battle in Ireland. Do you get that? Jeff is going to force Johnson to fight him. From where I've been sitting it looks as if the black man has been trying to force Jeff to the ring. And then that next April business doesn't look good to me. It leaves a whole lot of time for theatrical engagements, and I greatly fear me that is what Jeff is after more than he is a fight. I'm strong for Jeff if he'll get down to brass tacks and make good to the men from Missouri. I'm not for him, though, if he again tries to work the newspapers and fight fans for a lot of come-ons to boost his stage stunts.

HERE'S A TIP FOR BOB WILIE, who looks after the interests of Mike Mails, the game little lad who boxed a draw with Angus McDougal last night at the Armory. Buy the kid a new pair of trunks. He put up a game fight and came very near getting the decision, but those trunks are unlucky—or something.

NEXT WEEK'S CARD AT THE Armory is a lumper, and promises to be more to the liking of the members than such one-sided main bouts as the last three shows. Young Corbett is trying to get back and can't afford to stall like Abe Attell of Mike Twin Sullivan, and in Dave Deasley he has a boy who is able to give him a better battle than the Dixie Kid gave Langford. The Armory club was robbed by Attell and the Kid, and the Twin was the best man who could be found for Langford, and the members wanted to see him at work even with an opponent on. We've had enough of that kind now, so we'll have some real bouts, the kind that stirs us up and makes us walk around all evening with a chip on our shoulders.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
Dear Sir—To settle an argument I would like to have you print your opinion of A and B were pairing a game of high, low, jack and the game was called on a point with "Kid" Freeman, and besides challenging for a look at the Ace, A and B, whom, at catcher-elegants or otherwise, winner take all, bet on said Freeman. Trusting you can favor me with sufficient space for the above, I am respectfully, KID McGUIRE.

BOXING
BITS OF NEWS

Photos of James W. Coffroth are being posted in the Western boxing clubs. Jim is said to be ashamed of those of the quiet that cost Leach Cross his title, which continues at great size with the fall in a powder.

Packey McFarland is still hearing about the fielding given to Ray Thomas in the Big Bonnet in New Orleans. Packey is so used to being given the best of everything that he cannot stand an imitation.

Jack Johnson is said to have cleared up close to $100,000 already by charging two bits a throw to see him train for the Ketchell bout.

Sam Fitzpatrick backs up Johnson in the assertion that the colored man will win inside of twelve rounds.

The Mission A. C., Tribes, is trying to get some matches. Mr. Ariell or Tommy Ryan, or Packey McFarland vs. Hal Bronson, and Johnny McFarland vs. Monte Attell.

Billy McCarney of Philadelphia has discovered another meal ticket. Lew Powell is the "find," and Billy thinks he can make things around Philadelphia warm.

Jack Dougherty is a hopeful young fighter. He believes that the one hundred and fifteen will soon be reaching down for Dougherty like a big black rod, but feel to help but now.

Jimmy Clabby wants to bat $7,000 that he can get any eight to ten rounds with Al Neill. Mike Gibbons and Jimmy Gardner are preferred.

FOOTBALL
GRIDIRON NOTES

The experiment to make Benedell, the Texas grinder at the University of Pennsylvania into a football star is having trouble. Coach Folwell has been unable to get the intercollegiate ruling that he was a student in time to permit him to play next fall, and he cannot get him in the game unless he can be entered in the intercollegiate series. Benedell is a big fellow and a fast runner, but he cannot be used unless he can be entered in the intercollegiate series. Benedell is a big fellow and a fast runner, but he cannot be used unless he can be entered in the intercollegiate series.

An examination of the Carlisle schedule shows that the redskins will meet only one real big team during the season, and that is Pennsylvania. There was a time when the Indian school had games with Princeton, Yale and Harvard, as well as Pennsylvania, while all the big teams of the Middle West were on the schedule. After all of the inducements to get the Indians to play there the reason for this change in that policy is hard to figure out. Perhaps the Indians are getting overweighted when they play such big teams. Had the redskins been content to rebuild to defeats year after year they would have benefited financially more than this year. The end of the Harvard, Yale and Chicago games will mean a reduction in the Indian receipts of no less than $10,000.

Having John Marks for another year means a big lot to Dartmouth. There is not one man in a month man in a thousand who does not believe that Marks is of All-America calibre. He has simply been unfortunate in not having had a real opponent to oppose him. In the Dartmouth-Holy Cross game Marks was a marvel, and with an offense built to suit him and Hazel upon his ability, he will undoubtedly bear making Walter Camp's team this Fall.

* * *

Just how many years will pell by before Harvard is to defeat Yale in football is a question hard to forecast. There is not a particularly prominent player to grow further and further away from the Crimson. But in spite of this Harvard is a pretty strong factor in Philadelphia which is working toward a revamping of football relations. Had all not been for Dartmouth's appearance as one of the big football factors in the back of the mountaineer would probably have been an easier one than it is at present.

SCHOOL FOOTBALL.

The team that Bill Wilkie will be getting into shape at Springfield Training School looks almost good enough. If something wonderful happens and some regular should help him at Worcester Academy.

Mal Logan ought to have a good year at quarter for Brown Latin. Mike is fast, has considerable weight in a way and should class with the best team material of the season.

* * *

Jerry Downer, the genial head coacher of Franklin Field, says the goal posts will be installed too early and for one reason or another.

* * *

With "Ed" Whitcomb on one end and Harry Faulkner on the other, Exeter will have two very formidable fast ones. Whitcomb was nothing equal during his two seasons with the English High team three and four years ago.

* * *

Larry Duffy, the new coach at Boston High, is favored with a fairly arranged schedule. The team plays two games with every team on the schedule. This arrangement gives Coach Duffy a chance to size up the weak points in the first games and remedy them before the return contests.

DIXIE KID IS EASY FOR LANGFORD

By the Sporting Editor.

The bout between Sam Langford and the Dixie Kid at the Armory Club last night was what is commonly known as a farce. But farce is not the proper word to use. There was no low comedy and there were no ludicrous incidents. What the club members saw was a poor little fellow trying to compete during the round. Langford rocked the Kid's head with another wallop on the ear and when he missed a swing they fell into a clinch. Sam wallowed some terrible blows on Dixie's kidneys and the crowd yelled, "Don't break his back." When they got in motion again it was easy to see that Langford was simply playing with his man and no doubt was figuring in his own mind when to end the bout and set the crowd wild. He lifted the Kid off the floor with a half arm left jab and swung his right to the ear at the bell.

THIRD ROUND.

Langford rallied in and handed the Kid a terrible wallop on the back, but the little fellow came back for the first time and raised some cheers for himself by mixing it with Langford for a few seconds. He managed to land a stiff punch to Sam's jaw and there was more yelling. Langford only smiled and drove the Kid back with a right swing to the ear. The Kid started a rally, but Sam fought him off and a left jab and a terrific blow to his kidneys. Langford helped the Kid to his feet and when he was on his way straightened him some more with an upper cut. The Kid then rushed in and planted left and right in Sam's ribs, following with a straight left to Langford's nose. The crowd was yelling and shouting encouragement to the Kid and raised such a racket that neither fighter heard the bell for the sixth round.

FOURTH ROUND.

Langford nearly broke the Kid's back with a couple of awful wallops. Then it was right and left, right and left straight right and left upper cut until the Kid was squeezed in his corner wondering how he could ever get out. Langford's punches backed away and as the Kid came forward he ripped two hard ones to the stomach. The Kid was very weak by this time, but managed to get in a few taps. Sam talking them without an attempt to cover, purposely leaving himself open.

FIFTH ROUND.

Langford swung a right to the head and the Kid went to his knees. The crowd saw and shot over a right to Sam's head. Langford planned a few boxy ones to the Kid's back and the crowd hissed a bit. The Kid missed a swing and Sam tried to come across with a left, but only hit the air. Then the Kid stepped in with a right to the face which made Langford grin. It was evidently thought the Kid had lasted long enough and from this time on he likes had the proper stuff in him to go the limit. He swung right and left, then a right to the jaw. They came close and were separated by a right to the jaw and the Kid sat down heavily. When he got up Sam walked over a hard right to the jaw just as the bell rang. The Kid wobbled to his corner and fell out of his chair and had to be pulled back. His seconds realized there was no use continuing the bout so they threw a sponge in the ring. It is very doubtful if the Kid could have responded to the bell for the sixth round.

SECOND ROUND.

They came to a clinch. Langford planted a light left to the head, then swung right and left, jr. glancing blows against the eyes. It was bad sledding, but Sam wasn't trying very hard. The Kid put over a right left against the side of Langford's head, but that was the only time he tried to compete during the round. Langford rocked the Kid's head with another wallop on the ear and when he missed a swing they fell into a clinch. Sam wallowed some terrible blows on Dixie's kidneys and the crowd yelled, "Don't break his back." JOHNSON LIKES SPORTING EDITOR FOR REFEREE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—If James J. Jeffries, unbeaten champion heavyweight of the world, now ready to return to the ring and battle Jack Johnson, offers no serious objections, Ed W. Smith, sporting editor of the Chicago American, will act as referee of the heavyweight championship fight between the colored scrapper and the king of them all. Johnson to-day declared that he would urge both the promoter and Jeffries to name Smith as third man.

"It is rather early to think of referees just now," said Johnson this morning, "but since the matter has been brought up, I want to say that of the names thus far mentioned I can see no more able man than Ed Smith of Chicago. I am told that he is a personal friend of Jeffries and that his friends and Jeff are very intimate, but this has no effect on me. I know Smith is honest and capable, and that's all I want.

Johnson's implicit confidence in Smith as referee is backed by Coffroth the fight promoter, and the one likely to stage the contest. When he was asked what he thought of Johnson's selection Coffroth said:

"Of course it would be best for me to see a local referee selected should I get the bout, but if Jeffries and Johnson can agree on Smith I'll offer no objection Smith is perfectly honest and capable."

SCHOOL LEAGUE FIX 1910 BASEBALL LIST

At the annual baseball meeting of the Interscholastic League, held at Young's Hotel, the following officers were elected and a baseball schedule for the season of 1910 prepared. Charles M. Abbott was elected president, Henry C. Browne first vice-president, E. J. Brennan second vice-president and H. E. Stone secretary-treasurer.

The following schedule was adopted:

April 16 Roxbury vs. Somerville High at Broadway Field, English High vs. Dorchester High at Dunbar avenue grounds; April 23, Brighton High vs. Boston Latin at American League grounds; April 27, Dorchester High vs. Roxbury at Broadway Field, Somerville High vs. English High at Broadway Field; April 30, Boston Latin vs. Dorchester High at Dunbar avenue grounds, Somerville High vs. Brighton at Braintree Field; June 17, English High vs. Somerville High at Somerville.

HERRESHOFFS START BOAT FOR COCHRAN

BRISTOL, R. I., Sept. 29.—The Herreshoffs have started the preliminary work of laying down the lines for a racing schooner to be built for Alexander S. Cochran, owner of the Avenger. The new schooner is expected to be able to defeat J. Rogers Maxwell's The Queen and if the new craft succeeds in proving her superiority on this side she will be sent across to meet the crack racers of the other side, including the German Emperor's Meteor. The new craft will be considerably larger than The Queen or Elmina, which are 91 feet 6 inches and 87 feet, respectively, on the waterline.

MUNSEY CARS TO BE CHECKED AT TOUR'S END

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—When the coming tour of the Munsey automobile contest ends Philadelphia to-day Chairman Trego informed the urbat no further cars or cars would be accepted with after the conclusion of the tour. When the cars check in at Washington the drivers will take them to a garage and align them in the exact position they occupied before the tour started.

The technical committee will then examine them for any defects that may have developed from the run. While several cars will have perfect road scores it is questionable whether any will have perfect mechanical scores, as many have been subjected to unusual strains and side twists that would not be encountered by the average motorist under ordinary travel conditions.

LATONIA MEETING ON IN OCTOBER

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 29.—The Latonia race meeting will begin October 11 and continue for four weeks. That matter was settled at a conference yesterday between Harrey Myers, president of the Latonia Jockey Club; John Hachmeister, the treasurer, and Louis A. Cella and C. A. Tilles, biggest stockholders.

WHITNEY'S HORSE WINS.

NEWMARKET, England, Sept. 29.—Harry Payne Whitney's Top O' the Morning won the Hopeful stakes here to-day. Nine horses ran.

ATHLETIC NOTES.

Harry Hilbane, when asked for a statement as to his age, has never so much as made an attempt to embezzle that famous badge of his own youth. He says he is twenty-six years old, and unless he'll be an old another years and a half he has already long list at the indoor championships.

* * *

Kiviat is a wonder for his age. Although only twenty-six years old, he has already finished three years of college existence. He is a most considerate person and never runs against the indoor championships.

* * *

Owing to the fact that he has not as yet been in the country for four months, Lonsdale will not be able to represent the Irish team in the A. A. A. indoor championships, and one of their finest track winners will be forced to compete elsewhere.

KANSAS CITY BEATS TROTTERS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 29.—Probably the happiest man in the United States over the fact that the Chicago Cubs lost the National League pennant to the Giants was the world's champion catcher. He said:

"Well, I am tickled to death. That suits me exactly. I'll be looking for the opening of the season I was pulling for New York but I am glad Pittsburg won it and not Chicago. Revenge is sweet and I have got it. Murphy didn't treat me right. I would have done anything to have beaten Murphy out of the rag.

"I am the team and while they might not have won with me there I am satisfied that I helped Pittsburg a little anyway. I'm not worrying over the loss of my season's salary. If Murphy had not treated me as he did I would have been glad to have played with the Cubs."

THREE FAST TROTTERS.

Era, 2:10; Charley T., 2:10¼, and Zom mont, 2:11½, are three good trotters by Zombro, 2:11, sire of Era, 2:04, and Charley, 2:04¼, sire of Zombro, 2:08¾. As Carlotta Wilkes has several other promising colts there is a fine field for her to equal or beat Nell's record of being the dam of four 2:10 performers.

"The AMERICAN has the evening 'home' field in Boston exclusively."

A COCHATO IN LIST.

Two yearlings entered the standard list in the Colored fair, at Lexington. In addition to the world's championship mile record by Major Delmar, 2:01¼, at Memphis, a yearling gray colt by Cochato, 2, 2:11¾, in an effort to beat 2:25¼, paced a mile in 2:24¼. He was driven by Trainer H. C. Moody.

It's the Fashion Now to Fast

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

JUST at present it is the fashion to fast. I know half a dozen fashionable women who are busily engaged "dieting the flesh."

One is fasting to get thin, another to improve her complexion, another to cure indigestion, and one foolish and perfectly healthy young woman is fasting because every one else is doing so, and she never can resist experimenting with herself.

Moderation in eating would undoubtedly be of great benefit to many people, but to thousands of people who rarely get a full meal this fasting must seem rather grotesque.

Plenty of fresh air, sensible living and moderate exercise will keep any one in good condition, and there will be no need of fasting for completion, fat or any other evil.

If you eat rich, greasy foods, your complexion will suffer.

Most bad complexions arise from poor digestion.

Fresh, hot breads, and sweets in quantity are not to meet your digestive organs.

Meat Once a Day

Too much meat will coarsen your skin, meat once a day is enough for any one.

The average American thinks nothing of eating for his breakfast, first, a cereal covered with sugar and cream, two eggs, a chop, two cups of coffee and several slices of toast, enough at one meal to keep him for twenty-four hours.

The trouble with most of us is that we don't get enough fresh air. The loss of ozone in the air shuts hundreds of windows up like mole. Water and Summer flies should be fresh air in every room in the house.

In Africa the Arabs have a habit of drawing the head of their turbans tightly over their faces while they sleep. The result will be that in the morning they are not heavy as though surrounded by poison, for breathing the same air over and over again.

Even if you have to wrap yourself up as though for a walk in the get yourself fresh air while you sleep.

Do you want to have a sallow, pasty-chin, muddy complexion or do you want to be clear skinned, rosy and beautiful to look at?

How to Be Good-Looking

If you are a girl of sense, and most of my girls are sensible, you will want to be as good-looking as possible. The only way to achieve good look is by taking care of yourself, and that means fresh air and sensible living.

The girl who is fat is probably fond of sweets and she wants to look like a slight, pretty figure she must deny herself hot buttered bread. She must cut no sweets or starches and take plenty of exercise.

She can't eat as much as she likes, along those lines and thus be in the wake of fashion.

It is most important to drink plenty of water, say seven or eight glasses a day, and it should not be iced.

Never mix acids such as salad dressing, lemon, etc., with milk or cream. That combination is bound to set up a commotion in your insides.

I would advise all girls doing office work to eat very lightly in the middle of the day.

Fruit, cereal and milk or milk and eggs are a lovely enough luncheon.

If you wear a tight corset you are bound to show the effect; usually it means a red nose, and you all know how far from lovely that is.

The Soap and Water Habit

Another thing that helps greatly to win a good skin is plenty of soap and water. Every girl who spends her days in the smoky city goes home with a dirty face.

It will not do to simply rub it over—you must work carefully and thoroughly.

Castile soap is not expensive and it is pure.

Have a soft wash cloth and wash your face thoroughly every night with soap and warm water. In the morning use cold water and no soap.

If you are not too tired, it is wise to go through a few simple exercises night and morning—such as touching your fingertips to the floor without bending the knees, breathing in as you go down, and out as you raise your arms over your head. You may be too tired to do that, but you are not too tired to open your windows as high as they will go.

I need not tell you that all intoxicants are fatal to a good complexion; also to a good figure. Your own judgment will tell you that.

Most of the people who are fasting would be all right if they would curb their appetites and live sensibly. In fasting they are simply paying the penalty for foolish living.

If you will exercise moderation and sense in your every day living you will not need to fast in order to have a good complexion and a slender figure.

RHYMES ABOUT THE TOWN

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

The Meter and the Maid

CORONIA COIGN was the favorite child of a cynical financier.
Who might have rolled in the hoarded gold he'd amassed in a shrewd career.
Young Stilson Wrench was an artisan who worked for a gas concern.
And two per day was the fanciest pay that he ever could hope to earn.
But, notwithstanding his mean estate, when the maiden he chanced to see,
He said to himself, "Though I'm shy the perf, it is certainly her for me."
This ungrammatical sentiment no sooner had he expressed

Than he pined and dreamed, and in secret schemed, for the means to attain the real;
But when he sought of the senior Coign permission to press his suit,
He was shown the door of the eighteenth floor by way of the air-shaft route.
"Her wealth is a bar," he observed next day, with a touch of profound humbleur,
"But the mountain of cash is going to smash, for it stands between I and her!"

Young Stilson Wrench took his tongs in hand, one beautiful afternoon,
To follow the trade for which he was paid, of adjusting meters to tune;
And when he came to the Ville Coign, he loosened a secret screw
In the gas machine, and rejoiced unseen, as the spidery pointers flew.
"Aha," he said, while triumph sat like a wreath on his grimy brow,
"I will sap his wealth by clandestine stealth; the damsel MUST wed me now!"

Two years passed by, and the hoarded gold that old Coign's hard greed amassed
To collectors stern from the gas concern was going extremely fast.
He auctioned his bundles of stocks and bonds, unbonded his real estate,
But he still did fair, in the end, to share a bankrupt's useless fate.
But just as young Stilson Wrench perceived a victory well in sight,
The Coigns, alas; shut off the gas, and switched to electric light!

Young Stilson Wrench still goes his rounds, with many a vicious thrust,
Augmenting the bills that fill the tills of a boweless lighting trust;
But, relieved of the drain of the fake machine that robbed them by black-guard stealth,
The Coigns are back on the prosperous track of unsurpassable wealth.
And never again will the damsel's cheek, of the pinkish blend,
With the fear that distress might provoke her "Yes" to the suit of a Stilson Wrench.

The Perfume of the Lady in Black

"When I recall all the acts of Mme Darrase after your return from San Remo, I can see now in each one of them an expression of the terror which she experienced from her fear that she should miss the secret of her suspicion and her constant agony to escape her. Ah, let me speak, M. Darrase! Everything must be said—everything must be explained here and now if there is to be peace in the future. We are about to face up to the situation. Was there, then, was there nothing natural or human in Mlle Stangerson's behavior. The very eagerness with which she assented to your desire to hasten the marriage ceremony proved the longing which she left to definitely banish the torment of her soul. Her eyes—I remember it now!—used to say at that time—how often and how closely! Is it possible that I continue to see Larsan everywhere, even in the face of the man who is at my side, who is going to lead me to the altar and to take me away with him?

"From the moment of your return from the South with the appointment at the railroad station, monsieur, she lived in the most utter misery. She was already crying for help—for help against herself—against her thoughts—and, perhaps, even against you! But she dared not reveal her thought to any person because she dreaded that my confidant might see in her—"

And Rouletabille leaned over and said in M. Darrase's ear, not so low that I could not hear, but so softly that I can words did not reach Mathilde: "Are you going mad again?"

Then, lifting his head again, he continued:

"You ought to understand everything better now, my dear M. Darrase—both the strange coldness with which you were received occasionally and also the fits of remorseful tenderness which, in the doubt which filled her brain, would inspire Mme. Darrase to surround you with every evidence of attention and affection. And, furthermore, allow me to tell you that I myself have sometimes found you gloomy and distrait that I have fancied that you must have discovered that whenever Mme. Darrase looked at you, she would ask, in spite of herself, these from her mind the image of Larsan. It came upon her when you were beside her and when you were at a distance. And, consequently—let us understand each other completely—it was not the belief that Professor Stangerson's daughter would have known it, which removed my suspicions, since, in spite of herself, she entertained the fear all the while that you and Larsan were one. No! not my suspicions were removed by another cause!"

"They might have been removed," exclaimed M. Darrase, at once, frantically and despairingly—"they might have been removed, if, would you, by the simple exercise of reasoning that if I had been Larsan, wedded to Mlle. Stangerson, having her for my wife, I would have had every cause for making her believe in Larsan's death! And I would have never reassured myself! Was it not upon the day that Larsan returned to earth that I lost Mathilde?"

"Pardon, monsieur, pardon," replied Rouletabille, whose face had grown as white as a sheet. "You are abandoning now, if I may say so, the directions of pure reason. The facts which you mention, and show us just the contrary of that which you believe we should see. For my part, it seems to me that when one has a wife who believes, or who comes very near to believing, that one is Larsan, one has every interest in showing her that "Larsan exists outside of yourself."

As Rouletabille uttered these words he rose in Black, supporting herself by groping with her hands against the wall as she walked, came stumblingly to the side of Rouletabille and devoured with her eyes the face of M. Darrase, which had grown frightfully harsh and strained. As to the rest of us, we were so struck by the novelty and the irrefutability of Rouletabille's reasoning that we experienced no other emotion than an ardent desire to know what was to follow, and we took care not to interrupt, asking ourselves to what such a formidable hypothesis might not lead. The young man, imperturbably, went on:

"And, if you had an interest in showing her that Larsan existed elsewhere than in your body, there arose an exigency in which that interest was transformed into an immediate necessity. Imagine—I say imagine, M. Darrase, that you had really brought Larsan to life once—once only—in spite of yourself—in your own room—before the eyes of Professor Stangerson's daughter—and you will be, I repeat, under the necessity of bringing him to life again and yet again—outside of yourself, in order to prove to your wife that the Larsan whom she has seen returned to life is not you! Ah, calm yourself, my dear M. Darrase, I entreat you. Have I not told you that my suspicion has been banished—completely banished? But it is as well that we should divert ourselves for a few moments in reasoning the matter out a little, after these long hours of anguish when it seemed as though there would never be any place for reasoning again. See, then, where I am obliged to come in considering this hypothesis as realized (these are the procedures of mathematics which you know better than I—you who are a scholar!)—in considering, as I said, as realized the hypothesis that you are the counterfeit Darrase, the one which hides Larsan. According to my reasoning, then, you are Larsan! And I asked myself what would have happened in the railway station at Bourg to make you appear in the form of Larsan before the eyes of your wife. The fact of such an appearance is undeniable, it exists. And its occurrence at that moment cannot be explained by any desire on your part to have Larsan seen!" He paused for a moment, but Robert Darrase did not utter a word.

"As you were saying, M. Darrase," Rouletabille went on, "it was because of this apparition of Larsan that your cup of happiness was dashed empty to the ground. Therefore, if this resurrection should not have been voluntary there is only one other way in which it could have happened—through accident. And now just let us consider how this latter supposition clears up the entire situation. Oh, I have spent a lot of thought upon the incident at Bourg!—you see, I am still reasoning on the hypothesis of the you who is not Larsan, be it understood are at Bourg in the buffet. You believe that your wife is waiting for you somewhere in the station (as she told you when you left her, having finished your letters, you wish to go to your compartment in the car in order to attend to some detail of your toilet—you shall see say to cost a critical eye over your disguise to see if in any point it might be lacking? You think to yourself: A few more hours of this comedy and we shall have passed the frontier, she will be all my own—entirely alone with me, and I will throw aside this mask—for the mask wearies you a little, we may imagine —so much so, indeed, that, once arrived in your compartment, you grant yourself the grace of a few moments of repose.

PRETTY GOOD AT FIGURES, EH? WELL, HOW OLD IS JONESY?

Now, how old is little Johnny Jones? Half of the boy and girl population of Boston and Cambridge have been spending overtime on this problem. Isn't it time that YOU take a hand and tell just how old little Johnny Jones is?

Just because it looks a little bit hard isn't any reason for your not trying, is it? You are surely as smart and as bright as Johnny Jones' sister was at his age. Why don't you get busy with pencil, paper and brain power and solve the question once and for all? And you older folks, too.

Here is the problem.

When teacher asked little Johnny Jones his age, he replied:

"When I was born my sister was one-quarter the age of mother. Sister is now one-third as old as father and I am one-quarter of mother's age. In four years I shall be one-quarter as old as father."

Now, how old is little Johnny Jones? The Boston AMERICAN will pay you for work the problem out. Won't you help it by solving the problem and sending your home answer to Johnny Jones Contest, AMERICAN, Boston, Mass.

Here are some of the answers:

DOESN'T FATHER GROW OLDER.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Johnny's sister when he was born was 8 years old. At his mother was 4 times as old or 32. If sister is now 12 years of age father must be 48 and sister 16. Therefore Johnny must be 8 years old as he says in 4 years he will be a 4th as old as his father, which is 12.

FIGURES DON'T JIBE.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

I believe that at the birth of Johnny his sister was six years old, mother 24 years. Sister is now 14 years and father 42. Johnny is now 8 years old and in four more years 12, and the father 46. Johnny is now 8 years old.

PRETTY YOUNG FOR MA.

I have had the pleasure of figuring out the age of this family of four and this is the result: Which at the present time Johnny is 8 years of age and his father 36, sister 12 and mother 24.

PUZZLE WINNER UP AGAIN.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

When Johnny was born his mother was 28 1-5 years old; his sister was 7 1-5 years old. At present time mother is 38 2-5 years old, and Johnny 9 2-5, while sister is 19 1-5 and father 39 2-5. In four years father will be 44 2-5 and Johnny will be 13 2-5 years old, thus making sister in four times Johnny's age. Therefore at the present time Johnny Jones is 2 2-5 years old.

TOO SIMPLE FOR DON, BUT—

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

I looked at that Johnny Jones contest last night and I found it very simple. Johnny is 5 years and 4 months old. If there is any prize offered send it along.

DON N. MORRISCO.

(Nay, nay, Don. You don't even get an Irish stew for that.)

BACKS UP HIS GUESS.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Johnny is now 12 years old. When he was born his sister was 8 years old and mother 32, or 4 times sister's age. Now sister is 20 or 1-3 of father's age, which is 60. In four years more Johnny will be 16, or 1-4 of father's age of 64.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE BEST MAN WINS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man, twenty years of age, and have been calling on a young lady for the last eight months, and during that time I have told her I loved her, but she would not hear me the same. But I don't feel right, for some time another young man who calls on her on Sunday and Sunday nights, while I only see her when I write her or she sees me on the street. When I asked her if I could keep company with her, she said she couldn't just yet; and then I asked her if she was keeping company with this young fellow, and she said no; that his family and her family were great friends and that he seems like one of the family, and comes down whenever he feels like it, and that her house was open to me any time I wished to call. And when I do call and see her I am treated elegantly. So, will you kindly let me know what you think about this?

F. B.

A So far as I can see you simply lack the courage to slip in and get ahead of the other man. She has told you that you have her promise. Why don't you take advantage of the situation and call more often, and you can find out for yourself just where you stand.

H. S. G.

YOU are much too young to think of marriage for years to come.

"I thought you were working on Smith's new house," said the house-painter's friend.

"I was going to," replied the house-painter, "but I had a quarrel with him, and he said he'd put the paint on himself."

"And did he do it?"

"Yes; that is where he put most of it."

Are Women Unbusinesslike?

By DOROTHY DIX

(Article I.)

THERE is nothing that men get more real solid enjoyment out of than they do in ridiculing the unbusinesslike methods of women. It doesn't take much to amuse men where women are concerned, anyway, and so when one of the stronger sex comes up with a lady who signs a check "Yours lovingly," or does not know which is the debit or which the credit side of the ledger, he is provided with a joke that lasts him a lifetime.

Men consider that women's lack of knowledge of even common business usages is a sign of inferiority of the female intellect. Women might just as well conclude that because a man doesn't know the difference between elephants' breath chiffon and gray messaline, or between a turban and a toque, that his proper place is an asylum for the feeble-minded.

In both cases it is simply a matter of education and training. Because a woman who has never had the handling of any money before doesn't know which is the business end of a check nor how to draw a draft is no indication whatever that she does not possess business sense. Mr. Morgan himself couldn't work out a cut paper pattern at sight to save his life.

Of course women are unbusinesslike. Nobody denies it. When we hear of a man dying and leaving his widow or his single daughters a fortune we all begin to speculate about whether the executors of the estate will get it all or whether the women will lend it without security to Cousin Thomas, who prays such soulful and beautiful prayers.

Women are also unbusinesslike in the management of their household affairs. They do not know how to systematize things and get them done at the least expenditure of money and labor.

But why?

No Business Training.

Because nobody has ever yet thought it worth while to give girls any business training. The average woman can never plan ahead in regard to her expenditure, because she has no settled income, and doesn't know whether she is going to have fifty cents or five dollars. Her husband or her father is going to supply her with what she "needs"—which is a standard means, from the man's point of view, as little as he can get off with, and from the woman's point of view, as much as she can wheedle him out of.

So human being could possibly become a good manager on this uncertain basis, and that explains why women are unbusinesslike in their household management. A woman can't say to herself truly I will do without this in order to get that, because, if she doesn't take the bird in the hand she has no certainty of getting the game in the bush either.

As for the average woman not understanding the technique of ordinary business transactions, how could she, really, when she hasn't even a bowing acquaintance with a bank account of her own, and has no more occasion to draw a check than she has to reference a prize fight? All the money that most women ever see is the little change that is given them for carfare and market money. The man of the house pays the big bills and all that the woman has are a few dollars for emergencies.

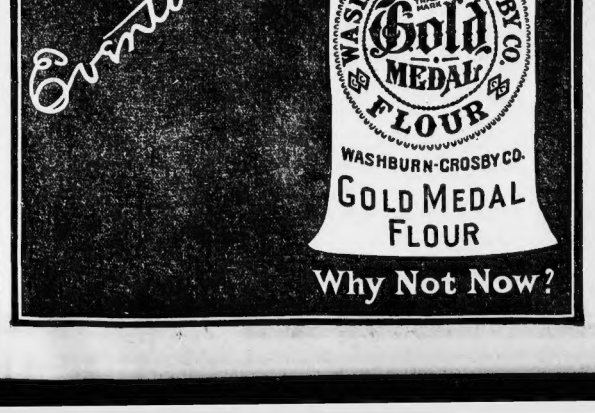
As for the relative value of stocks and bonds and investments, nobody dreams of such a thing as educating her along this line, and as it is the exception for a man to come into a little money she can be just as easily persuaded into buying Wild Cat as preferred as Pennsylvania bonds. Any certificate with a nice hand-engraved border on linen paper looks good to her.

The fact of this is not the convincing proof that it seems to be that women are unbusinesslike they have no business facility. It merely proves that they are unbusinesslike because a woman becomes an exceedingly apt pupil, as is shown in the case of Mrs. Hetty Green, who had not been a day in her life when she was a little girl, to think that she might be able to take care of the fortune that was one day to be hers. Mrs. Harriman, whose husband began with theirs a training for the great game of finance in which he was engaged, is said to be one of the most clear sighted and capable financiers in the country. Many other rich widows have proved able to take care of their fortunes, and there have been a few instances where, after a man had made a failure in business, his wife has taken it up and succeeded it to success.

All of this shows, what all of us know, that the unbusinesslike methods of women are primarily simply and solely due to lack of training. In reality in nothing are men more consistently cruel to women than in not teaching their wives and daughters at least the rudiments of business. It seems incomprehensible that a man will spend his life toiling to amass a fortune for his womenkind and not once in a while think how to take care of it, but we see this happen every day.

Is it because men are unbusinesslike; if they do not know how to draw checks properly; if the way they keep their household accounts furnishes a never failing joke to their husbands; if they get muddled over the question of interest, and sign papers without ever reading them because of a good-looking Fellow with a black mustache asked them to put their names where he had made a cross mark; if they can be talked into buying an orange grove in Massachusetts or planting a pineapple farm supply flannel petticoats to the Hottentots; the fault lies at the door of either their fathers and husbands, who have not made them "twice" to the business proposition.

After all, there's a prejudice little we know by intuition, and even men have to be taught things.



WHAT! IRISH STEW WITHOUT BEEF IN IT?

It takes a culinary artist to concoct a real Irish stew. There are a lot of people who serve a counterfeit article of cookery when they are called upon to produce. Lawrence O'Reilly has offered $5 for the best recipe and the BOSTON AMERICAN has been and proposes the second best. It's a contest that is worth the efforts of all housewives and other cooks.

Mr. O'Reilly is busy now examining the recipes which are coming into the BOSTON AMERICAN office by the mail bag full.

EXCELLENT IF COOKED RIGHT.

Editor AMERICAN:

Take 2 pounds of lean of mutton cut in good-sized pieces, cover with cold water in an iron pot one hour, then add 6 large onions, 2 parsnip, 2 carrots left whole, six medium-sized potatoes cut up, 4 small yellow potatoes, one-half pound fat pork cut up and cook one hour more.

Dumplings—One pint flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, pinch of salt, enough milk to mix. When meat and vegetables are cooked add above; when cook two spoon of flour mixed with water to thicken salt and pepper to taste.

MRS. J. E. COVENEY.

No. 230 K street, South Boston.

ARE YOU MARRIED, MR. O'R.?

Editor AMERICAN:

Now Larry, dear, take my advice,
I'll tell you what to do;
Just marry a maid from Donegal
Who can make an Irish Stew.

Then you can say "goodby" to restaurants,
And have a cosy home for two;
That wifey may give you dumplings,
As well as Irish Stew.

M. F. H.

Roxbury.

"THE SONG OF THE STEW"

Sure I've sung ye many a song in my time,
But now ye want something new;
So I'm after giving a bit of rhyme
Concerning an Irish stew.
For I've got the original cold potato,
All the way from old Galway
For cooking to rights that same;
If ye only get hould of the mate;
If ye spoil it, 'twould be to blame;
So let me give ye this bit of advice,
Ye can very soon see it is true;
That nothing in life is half so nice
As a real cold Irish stew.

In choosing your meat don't get it too fat
Nor be any means over lean;
For the kind of mutton that pleases Pat
Is sort of betwixt and between;
Then cut it up nice of a meaty sort
And your onions sound and sweet;
And peel them and don't spare them
And let them be neatly cut.

In with the meat; then pepper
And season to taste, mind;
Och the water I'do almost forget,
Ye'll be wise enough; be when may it the least,
By jabers, ye'll spoil the whole lot.
Then ye can sit down
And watch the pot boil,
Till the mate is done throughly through;
And you will soon be convinced
By a real Irish stew.

WINNIE DILBERT.

No. 12 Branch street, Dorchester.

IS THIS IT, LARRY?

Editor AMERICAN:

My father and mother were Irish
And I am Irish, too;
So I will send a recipe
For Lawrence O'Reilly's stew.

No wheat. Take two pounds of fresh beef flank and one pound of fresh mixed pork. Place on a slow fire in plenty of water and season with pepper and salt to suit "Larry's" taste. Put in at once one small head of cabbage cut into quarters. One hour later add one small yellow turnip cut into cubes, six or eight medium sized onions whole. An hour later add one carrot, two parsnips, six or eight potatoes cut into cubes. Cook stead potatoes all cut into cubes. Cook one-half cup of rice in a separate dish and add before potatoes are done. Fifteen minutes before stew is taken up add dumplings made by one cupful of flour, two heaping spoons of baking powder, a little salt, and add sufficient milk to make a stiff batter to be dropped from spoon. Cover closely without removing cover for fifteen minutes. Be careful to cook closely after rice is added to prevent sticking.

If this doesn't tickle Larry's palate then there isn't one drop of Irish blood in him.

MRS. A. M. GATES.

No. 21 Dyer avenue, Everett.

TRY THIS ONE, AMOS.

Editor AMERICAN:

So you're longing for a good Irish stew?

Sure, me boy, I'll make one for you!
We'll warm the cockles of your heart;
The recipe came from the "Ould Dart."
Come, Argon, and try it soon, please do.

Two pounds of beef, cut into pieces size of an egg; put into stewpan with 3 quarts cold water. When it begins to boil, skim, and add 1 carrot, 1 parsnip, 1 onion, 4 white turnips, all cut in dice, and simmer 1 hour; then add 4 or 5 potatoes sliced, and cook until potatoes are soft. If not thick enough, dissolve one dessert spoonful of flour in small cup of cold water; add to stew, allowing it to boil up once. Salt and pepper to taste. Celery salt or parsley improves the flavor.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STEEL COMMON TRACTIONS IN GOES ABOVE 90 THE LIMELIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Great excitement attended the opening of the stock market to-day when the Standard railroad and industrial shares sold at new record prices. Steel common was the most active issue and 20,000 shares changed hands at the opening, at from 90 to 90¼, the highest price in its history.

Atchison also had a wild opening, 10,000 shares changing hands at from 123¾ to 124¾, while 7,500 shares of United States were sold at from 20¾ to 20¾. While this issue was heavy and it sold at a new high record of 150¾.

The strength of Steel had a sympathetic influence on the rest of the independent steel companies which were active and higher. Republic Iron and Steel opened the door of this group and touched the new high record of 36¾. Sloss-Sheffield rose 2 points to 92½.

Tobacco stocks were strong and higher in London.

The Subway continued under pressure at the opening of the New York Curb Market and sold at the new low record of 17¾. Shortly after this new low record came, announcement was made of the passage that earnings of the company for July showed an increase of 42 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. August earnings increased 40 per cent, it is said those of September. The cash in revenue for the fiscal year is estimated at 15 per cent. Mining shares were not materially changed.

"Circulation is counting in Boston more than ever before. The evening field is the AMERICAN'S almost exclusively. The Traveler's run of business being less than a third and the Transcript's less than a sixth of what the AMERICAN carries."—Advertisers' Magazine.

FIVE SUBMARINES READY FOR USE

QUINCY, Sept. 29.—With one exception, the fleet of six submarine boats constructed by the Electric Boat Company for the Government have completed all tests and will be turned over to the naval officials at the Charlestown Navy Yard within ten days. The class the submarines broke all records for submerged cruising, reaching a depth of 200 feet. Individual submarines have previously performed this feat. The Snapper, of Provincetown, was, in the course of her twenty-four hours' test to-day, thus made the only performance lacking in the fleet figures. The other boats are the Narwhal, Stingray, Tarpon, Greyling and Bonita.

Nothing succeeds like circulation. The AMERICAN has quantity and quality.

STEEL TECH OPENS WITH 1500

Technology opened its forty-fifth year at 10 o'clock yesterday appropriately with Holmes Hall filled for the first term work. Regular exercises began in the various departments.

President R. C. Maclaurin addressed the students in Huntington Hall, Rogers Building, at 1 o'clock, following them officially to the institute. Following the president's address Major J. B. Ewing, the new professor of military science, delivered the next.

President William Hallowell, professors of the junior class led in the organization of the freshmen, with the election of a temporary class chairman, managers of football, track, and ring-off of teams.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

SERVE QUININE AT BRAZIL BANQUET

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—How a great South American Railroad is being built by the aid of quinine was told on the arrival here of the Steamship Re-gul Dutch West India mail service, by Dr. H. I. Stout, of Trenton, N. J., who, with a party of civil engineers, returned on that steamship after an experience of almost two years in the Brazilian jungles. "The railroad is the Madeira & Mamore," said Dr. Stout, "and it will run from Porto Velho to Guajara Mirim. An American firm of contractors, May, Jekyll & Randolph, has undertaken it.

"At a banquet given by the engineers four before we left Porto Velho the last course of the dinner was quinine. In fact, we end every meal with it down there."

NUN WRITES COMEDY FOR FULTON FETE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A comedy written by a nun who never set foot inside of a theatre will be one of the features of the Hudson-Fulton celebration by the pupils of St. Agnes's Academy, Fordham Point. The comedy, in which the principal characters are Hudson, Fulton, President Taft and former President Roosevelt, was written by Sister M. Petra, who is the sister of the Rev. Father Antonious, the American Provincial of the Franciscan Order of Friars. She has been a member of the Dominican Order for thirty years.

PRETTY SOUVENIRS AT THE FOOD FAIR

The attendance at the World's greatest Food Fair and Home Furnishing Exhibition grows daily. Upon all sides is heard enthusiastic praise for the enterprise. The women folk have never before seen so many things to interest and instruct them. One particularly pleasing feature is the distribution of pretty souvenirs to the first 1,000 ladies purchasing tickets during the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock every morning. This plan will be continued every morning this week.

LORILLARD SPENCER LOSES HIS LEFT LEG

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 29.—Lorillard Spencer of New York has been operated on and one of his legs amputated. At the Newport Hospital it was said to-day that the condition was favorable. Some days ago Mr. Spencer injured his left foot. It gradually grew worse and a few days ago it was decided that amputation was necessary just above the knee.

BURY AUTO VICTIM.

The funeral of Matthew J. Dacey, seventy years old, of No. 16 Sheridan street, Roxbury, who was killed by an automobile on his way to church, was held at the Church of Blessed Sacrament, Jamaica Plain, to-day.

The SUNDAY AMERICAN is the Seventh Day Wonder of New England.

Just the Place You Have Been Looking For, and We Can Prove It. Come to

Atlantic "By-the-Sea"

Within Half an Hour From Shopping District and Theatres

Positively the most accessible all-the-year-round seashore and city suburb of Greater Boston

13 Minutes From South Station. Train Service Unexcelled. 82 Trains Daily. Fare, 5 Rides for 38 Cents.

The Metropolitan Park Boulevard, already completed, borders on the shore side of the property and from every house lot can be seen the ocean broken only by several picturesque islands, Thrumcap, Bumpkin and Boston Light.

The Time to Buy Is Now—the Place Here. Get One of the Best Lots Ever Offered

During the past three weeks we have sold lots to some of the best people in Boston because they readily can see where they will double in value. Why not you, too? Don't hesitate. Don't miss the greatest opportunity of your life. Investigate and you will buy, as this is without doubt the best suburb ever offered in Boston. All we ask is your inspection.

Building Restrictions

Sufficient to protect the investment of every purchaser, and all houses must be set back from the street lines. This alone will be a specially attractive feature.

BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, SEPTEMBER 29, 1909

"It is generally conceded that the BOSTON AMERICAN has a greater circulation than all the other Boston evening papers combined, and that it is as strong in Boston in the evening field as, for example, a paper of the combined strength of the Evening Journal and Evening World would be in New York city, or the Evening American and Evening News in Chicago."—Advertisers' Magazine.

Be an Optimist About Everything —Except Yourself

If You Can Keep Dissatisfied with Yourself, and Hopeful About Everything Outside of Yourself, You Will Succeed, if There Is Any Success in You

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Yesterday there stood in this office a man who has made A REAL AMERICAN SUCCESS.

He began without any great advantages, no fortune. His equipment was courage and health. Today he has all that a man needs, a fortune sufficient to educate his children and to provide for the future, a good family, AND A GOOD NAME.

At the end of a casual conversation on business and good work this man said as he was about to go:

"THE FACT IS THAT A MAN OUGHT TO BE OPTIMISTIC ABOUT EVERYTHING IN THIS WORLD EXCEPT HIMSELF."

We lose no time in repeating this statement to the millions of human beings who see this newspaper.

Americans think, talk and dream about success, and constantly work for it.

In those few words, "be optimistic about everything except yourself," there is more of the secret of success than in many volumes of platitudes by very rich men telling how THEY got ahead.

Nine men out of ten waste their time and throw away their chances thinking about themselves, praising themselves TO THEMSELVES, and firmly believing that the rest of the world is against them.

Optimism, which comes from the Latin word "optimus," meaning BEST, is a great force. Optimism means hope, and it develops courage. The man who believes that everything in the world is or can be made right is apt to make his own corner of the world right—so far, at least, as he is concerned.

To be optimistic, believing in the best as regards the future and the present, and the possible results of hard work, is to succeed.

But don't apply your optimism to yourself. Don't believe that you are "the best" or anywhere near the best. Remember that the brain with which you think is a government put in charge of your body. The body is full of all sorts of inherited weaknesses—laziness, greed, procrastination, self-conceit.

They tell us that we descend from monkeys that lived on cocoanuts and slept up in the trees. Perhaps we do, perhaps we don't.

Anyhow, there is a good deal of the changeable, lazy monkey in us. And there is a good deal of the pig also. Zola knew when he said "every man has within himself a hog asleep."

The thing to do is to keep that animal asleep, not wake it up, scratch its back and make it feel contented and important.

Believe in other people, without making it possible for a mistaken belief to hurt you too much. Believe in the world, in the future, and in the present.

Watch yourself, criticise yourself, BLAME YOURSELF, AND NOBODY ELSE, WHEN THINGS GO WRONG.

In that way you will find the short road to success.

BE OPTIMISTIC ABOUT EVERYTHING EXCEPT YOURSELF.

That Cold North Pole

America May Wish It Was Never Discovered

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Perhaps Peary and Cook both went to the North Pole, Cook first and Peary afterward. Perhaps Cook went and Peary didn't; perhaps Peary went and Cook didn't.

Perhaps neither went, and both are shamming. Perhaps both believe they got there, and neither did get there.

This newspaper doesn't know, and perhaps nobody will ever know.

Peary, in his eagerness to have all the limelight, sent back all of his white companions, and we have only his word for it that he went to the North Pole.

Cook had no white companions to send back, and, to Peary's disgrace be it said, Peary may have made it impossible for Cook to prove his claim, however just.

One thing in the whole mixup is quite certain—Peary in discovering the North Pole has thoroughly uncovered himself. He sent back the white men that risked their lives and did their hard share of the work. That was egotistical, ungrateful, and especially unworthy, considering that Peary, throughout all his career as an explorer, has been on the public payroll as a naval officer.

In addition, and far more shameful, if the allegation be proved, is Mr. Peary's conduct in refusing to take on his boat Cook's instruments and records.

Contrast the littleness of a Peary with the attitude of the great Darwin and that of Alfred Russell Wallace.

Darwin and Wallace made the same discovery, or, rather, formulated the same famous scientific theory at about the same time.

EACH EAGERLY AND COURTEOUSLY ACKNOWLEDGED THE OTHER'S GREATNESS. Each was eager that the other should have full credit. And Wallace insisted that the final honor should go, as it did go, to Darwin, because the latter had worked so much longer and more arduously than he.

The Boston American doesn't know who discovered the Pole, whether it was ever discovered, and, like other Americans, we are beginning not to care very much.

It looks very much, however, as though Peary believed that Cook had made the discovery. If not, why refuse to bring Cook's instruments and records, confided to Whitney? THOSE INSTRUMENTS AND RECORDS SURELY COULD HAVE BEEN MADE TO PROVE THE FALSENESS OF COOK'S CLAIM, IF IT BE FALSE.

Just at present we are inclined to think that Mr. Peary's greetings, unless he can straighten matters out thoroughly, will not be overwhelmingly cordial.

DR. PARKHURST'S ARTICLE —ON— CLEANLINESS AND BEAUTY

Written for the Boston American.

By Dr. C. H. Parkhurst

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner.

THERE is much in the little town of Ventnor, on the south coast of the Isle of Wight, that sets one thinking. It is not only beautiful for situation, placed upon a steep slope just under cover of the Downs, and looking down squarely upon the English Channel, but is unspeakably graceful and tidy in all its interior arrangements.

The streets are steep and crooked, but they are all clean. It would seem from appearances that it must be as definitely contrary to law and to the public sentiment to litter up the highways here as if were in New York city in the time of Colonel Waring.

But a still more noticeable feature of the village is the exquisite neatness of each of its individual residences. And this is true not only of the more pretentious villas, of which there are many, with their scrupulously kept grounds, walks and terraces, but is equally true of the very smallest habitations, a story and a half high, with accommodations apparently for a family of not more than two, with no margin for expansion.

Even those that are hardly more than bird cages and doll houses, the abodes evidently of people very humbly circumstanced, are decorated with those little touches of taste and affectionate attention that render them exceedingly pretty and inviting. One feels in passing them a desire to enter and to experience the exquisite cleanliness and neatness that are certain to distinguish their interiors.

Even the most microscopic of them has its name, which is tastefully inscribed on the outer wall, a feature which indicates the respect and affection which the occupant feels for his own little home. It is all very winsome.

And all of this costs almost nothing. Cleanliness is a luxury, but not an expensive one. It needs but a little money to put a few flowers in the window and to hang the windows with a bit of woven whiteness. It betokens a refined and gentlemen spirit and tends to foster that kind of spirit both in the tenant and the passer-by.

One instantly falls in love with such a domicile, however contracted and lowly in its proportions. Even in its exterior it is an education in refinement.

All of this sets an American wondering whether good missionary work would not be done by cultivating this spirit of cleanliness, tidiness and quiet touches of inexpensive adornment among the occupants of the contracted and unpretentious tenements of our own cities.

It costs no more to keep a little house or tenement clean than it does a large one, and not nearly so much. Very little in the way of flowers or of artistic touches needs to be added to a house in order to make a home of it.

This is worth thinking about. There is great holding power in a domicile that is felt to be a home, and not simply a place to eat and sleep in; and the smallest increase that operates to produce the homesense is so much added to the worth of the individual and to the value of society.

England and South Africa

SUPERB as was the heroism displayed by the Boers six years ago in resisting the British attempt to despoil them of their independence, still finer is the temper of mind evinced by them in the cordial way in which they have entered into the scheme of South African federation.

Some of us find it exceedingly difficult to forgive the British for dealing with the African Dutch in the same way that the Northmen once dealt with the English Saxons.

This, however, is to be said in behalf of the British, that when, after two humiliating years of failure, they finally vanquished the little knot of Dutchmen, the terms upon which they dealt with their victims were exceptionally generous.

It has been rarely, if ever, the case that conquered have fared so well at the hands of their conquerors.

Whether the English were actuated thereto by policy, by reason or by conscience, the result has been the same.

The large part which they accorded to the Dutch in the administration of their local government has had the most beneficent of effects. The very patriotism which nerved the latter to a terrific resistance to English aggression has operated still to make them feel that Dutch interests are of more account than Dutch pride; that more can be secured to their people by submitting to the inevitable than by maintenance of a continued attitude of hostility or of sullenness.

The consequence is that the consideration shown to the Dutch at the close of the war has elicited from them a hearty response. The earnestness with which they are entering into the arrangement by which Cape Colony, Natal, Orange River Colony and the Transvaal are to become federated in one general scheme of government under British sovereignty seems to be thoroughly cordial.

There have been a great many fine passages in Dutch history, but none finer than this, if as fine; for it takes more of the stuff of heroism is made of to submit generously to what has been felt to be maltreatment than it does to resist maltreatment.

It is probably unjust to suppose that under color of an outwardly cordial acceptance of the proposed scheme of federation a hostile spirit is still cherished that will find its expression when some strategic moment arrives. The Boers will probably make a greater success of life under British administration than they would if undertaking to maintain a distinct government of their own, and they have presumably become convinced of that fact and are happier in the prospect of what they are going to gain than in the retrospect of what they have so sadly but bravely lost.

The world, especially that part of it which sympathized tenderly with the Boers in their heroic endeavors six years ago, will follow with kindliest interest the history of the Transvaal in the new relation in which it is expected to be placed.

A Ballad of Telegrams

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

BACK in the misty past loom up the names
Of Captain Kidd, Cole, Younger, Jesse James,
Sir Francis Drake, Morgan, the pirate king,
And others who would steal most anything.
Why, ask you, have we no such men to-day?
Replying to your query, we would say:

Sing a song of telegrams,
This is what they say:
Cook stole Peary's Eskimos,
Peary stole Cook's sleigh.
Cook stole Peary's faithful dogs,
Cook's dogs Peary stole!
Isn't that a funny way
to go and find the Pole?

Now Captain Kidd and gallant Francis Drake
Both fought for everything that they could take.
They didn't deal in short and ugly names,
Neither did Morgan, Younger, Jesse James.
They did their devilry with sword and gun—
Not so our heroes of the Midnight Sun.

Sing a song of telegrams
In this pretty row:
Cook swiped Peary's fox-skins,
Peary copped Cook's scow.
Cook stole Peary's overshoes,
Peary slapped Cook's wrist;
Isn't that a funny way
To be a scientist?

Brightening the Home

By WINIFRED BLACK

THE sensible woman looked cross when she came into the room this morning.

Her cheeks were too red and her eyes too bright, and her lips were set in such a straight line that all the sweet curves of them were lost and she looked ten years older.

"I don't see," she said, "what people see in a fool to admire, do you? I've had a piece visiting me—an awfully pretty girl, sweet, too, in her way, but she's got just about as much sense as a little yellow canary bird.

"I know I ought to be ashamed of myself, but I can't help being cross when I see the men flutter around her.

"My two boys don't know whether they're afoot or horseback whenever she's around. And as for John—that dear old goose of a husband of mine—why, she's completely turned his head with her fool songs and her silly little speeches and her light-headed laugh. What would you do about it?

"I'd go right home," I said to my friend, the sensible woman, "and I'd have all the fun there is with my foolish niece.

"She'd have to work hard to be any more foolish than I for awhile, I can tell you that. You've been sensible too long—and it's struck in.

"If you aren't tired of thinking about the children's clothes, and the jelly for dinner, and the furnace and the cook's plan for dinner—your husband is tired of hearing about it. He's sensible already—that's what he's paid for. Do give him a little folly once in a while, for an evening.

"And whisper if you're blue and discouraged; don't be too sensible about it.

"Just set like a naughty little girl for a few minutes and see if your husband won't look relieved.

"He has an awful time living up to your common sense.

"Roast beef is a fine staple, but who wants it three times a day? Put a little fruit salad and marmalade cream into your menu once in a while. I believe John will appreciate it."

The sensible woman looked dubious. I don't believe she's going to take my advice, but, all the same, I wonder if it was such bad advice after all?

CLEVELAND MOFFETT'S GREAT MYSTERY STORY "THROUGH THE WALL" Begins In Next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN
